GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

INDOOR GARDENING.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—Get in all chrysanthemums, the buds of which are beginning to swell, taking care to give abundance of air on all suitable occasions, to maintain a dry atmosphere in the house, and keep a sharp look-out for insects or mildew. Primulas, Cinerarias and Cyclamens should have their pots fairly filled with roots, and may now be assisted with occasional doses of weak liquid manure. Hard-wooded plants brought indoors for winter and spring bloom should have all the air possible, so that they may not feel the change too keenly; green fly and other insects, too, will be less troublesome if this matter is attended to. Bulbs of all kinds for spring bloom may be potted, using a compost of two parts loam, one part leafmould and decayed manure mixed, and one part sand. Lifting and housing much of the material used for summer bedding will tax the labour and space at command in many places, but it should be borne in mind that plants used as "dot" subjects, bedded out in their pots, are well worth preserving, as they will give better results next year than young plants. Cuttings of Geraniums, Heliotrope and any other bedding plants of which the stock may be short, may be taken off and struck indoors

AUTUMN HINTS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—Now that the cooler weather has come there will be that little extra care required that means so much to the fowl if they are to be helped to that good condition which enables them to withstand the cold and wet. Some poultry farmers consider the hens are old when they have passed their second laying season, though long ago people often kept hens until they were five or six years old, and sometimes even until they died of old age. There are, however, many poultry-keepers who have good layers which they would not care to part with at two years old—especially if they are good layers, sitters, or mothers. Indeed, many who keep fowl would not find it profitable to part with them too young. However, there is one thing to be considered in keeping hens after they are two years old, and it is that the older they are the longer and harder the moult becomes. If the weather is cold and wet at the time of late moulting the hens require something in the nature of a pick-me-up to enable them to come through quicker than they might otherwise do, so that they will not be too long before starting to lay again.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING SERVICE

DIOCESE OF CASHEL AND EMLY

A Service of Thanksgiving for the blessings of harvest was held in St. John's Church, Newport, Co. Tipperary, on Thursday, October 4, and a large congregation attended, including members from the Parishes of Cashel, Knockaney, Abington, Limerick and Castleconnell. The following clergy officiated: The Rev. Chancellor Johnstone, M.A., Bansha; Canon W. E. Hipwell, M.A., Lorrha; Canon L. G. Davis, M.A., Castleconnell; the Rev. R. Bird, M.A., D.S.O., St. Kevin's, Dublin; the Rev. A. E. M. Hewetson-Jones, M.A., and the Rector (the Rev. E. E. Kenny).

The Service was choral, the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis being rendered by the choir (augmented from Cashel and Limerick choirs) to the setting by Bruce Steane in F. The lessons were read by Canon Hipwell and Chancellor Johnstone. The Service was intoned by the Rector and the Rev. A. E. Hewetson-Jones respectively. The anthem, "Ye shall go out with joy" (Barnby), was rendered by the choir, the soprano solo being taken by Miss Florrie Cullen (Newport); Miss Stevens (Newport) presided at the organ.

The preacher was the Rev. R. Bird.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES AT BOOTERSTOWN

Booterstown Parish Church was attended by very large congregations on Sunday last, when Services of Thanksgiving for the completion of the work of lighting and redecoration were held. In addition, an electric organ-blower and an electric bell-ringer have been installed. A feature of the Services was the singing both by choir and congregation. The anthem of the morning was "Thine, O Lord" (Kent), and in the evening Bach's Chorale, "Jesu, joy of Man's deserving." The preachers were the Rev. E. L. B. Barker and the Dean of St. Patrick's.

The church has been transformed by the system of lighting adopted, which is by concealed and semi-concealed lights in the nave and chancel and by pendants in the transepts. The result has been complete freedom from glare and a perfectly equal distribution of light in every part of the building.

TONE AND COMMENT

DUBLIN QUIET

CARROLL'S QUICK OVER-SUBSCRIPTION

Dublin Stock markets opened the new account in quiet fashion. The tone was steady, but dealings were on a modest scale. There was considerable comment on the rapid oversubscription of the Preference and Ordinary capital of P. J. Carroll and Co., the lists for which were no sooner opened than they closed. Not anticipating this rush, many applicants for large amounts were unable to lodge their cheques and had to turn away from Guinness Mahon's doors disconsolate. For once a bank was compelled to refuse "lodgments."

Free State Funds were steady, with Third Loan 10s. to the good. New Land Bonds were easier. War Loan was 105 7/16.

Dublin Corporation 3½ p.c. and 4½ p.c. were both 10s. better. Bank stock lost a point and Munster and Leinsters were unchanged.

Great Northern Ordinary eased 5s., but the Preference remained at 11.

Guinness units were a firm spot and closed 4½d. up at 127s. 10½d. All the dealings in Irish Industrials were at former prices or at figures adjusted to dividend deductions.

British Industrials made a mixed showing. B.A.T. dropped 1s. 9d. to 125s. and Unilevers were weak, but Dunlops, Fords and Vickers were all a few pence harder. There was very little in the section indicative of more active times ahead.

LONDON STEADY

TERMS OF NEW BLACKPOOL ISSUE

Although the volume of business was on a limited scale, the London Stock markets opened the account yesterday with a steady tone. Considerable interest was displayed in forthcoming issues, and arrangements were being made yesterday for an issue of Blackpool Corporation Stock to the extent of £750,000, at 3 per cent., redeemable in 1960.

The issue price is to be 98½, so that the terms are the same as for the Sheffield Loan last week. The money is for the purpose of redeeming mortgages carrying a higher rate of interest, and, if the issue is successful, other English corporations will be encouraged to take similar action.

The Gilt-edged market was quietly steady, with a few narrow movements in British Government Stocks. Old Consols lost ⅛, but 3½ per cent. and 4½ per cent. Conversions hardened. Local Loans lost the turn, while Indians were easier. In the Foreign market, German Bonds attracted attention in view of the prospects of an agreement being reached in the debt negotiations. Interest on the Dawes' Loan falls due in a week's time, so there may be a clearing of the air in this connection. In some quarters it is thought there may be favourable developments this week. This view is not general, and Dawes' Loan at 52½ only showed a rise of ½ at the finish, though the Young Loan at 34½ had a rise of 1½.

With the exception of L.M.S. Ord., which eased slightly, movements among British Rails were in favour of holders. L.M.S. 4 per cent. rose a point and N. Easterns were better. A fair business was passing in London Transport "C" stock, which put on ⅜. Foreign Rails attracted little attention. Can.-Pacs repeated 13½, while American Rails improved in places.

Oils responded to better advices from America, and an improvement in the position of the commodity assisted Rubbers. The advance in the price of gold caused no general improvement in Mining Shares, and there was a disposition to take profits in certain Kaffirs, notably East Rand Props., now that the terms of the new issue have been announced. Shareholders are offered 600,000 shares of 10s. each at a bonus price of 45s. in the proportion of one for every five held. Among West Africans, Kwahu showed a further advance.

In the Industrial market, the opening of the Motor Show Week directed attention to Motor Shares, which were better in places, and Tillings remained firm in anticipation of the award of the Arbitration Board regarding the compensation to be paid for the company's London services. Courtaulds were sold on a fair scale in the morning, but the price showed some recovery in the later dealings, and finished over the worst. Dunlops looked better, but Marks and Spencers were on the dull side.

R.M.S.P. LOSSES

DEFICIENCY INCREASED BY TWO MILLION POUNDS

The Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's report for 1933 states that the deficiency account has been increased to £11,303,114 from £9,011,362. Provision has been made in the balance at December 31, 1933 of the liability under a guarantee given to the bankers of an associated company of £495,001, and a transfer to deficiency account of £1,449,999 has been made in respect of the value of an investment in a major subsidiary company, which the directors are now satisfied is of no value. A further £325,000 has been charged to the deficiency account in respect of the dividend for 1933 on the Preference shares of White Star Line, Ltd., guaranteed by R.M.S.P.

The directors emphasise that the deficiency account, as it now stands, cannot be regarded as covering the whole of the losses mainly in relation to investments and guarantees which may result to the company. No provision has been made in the accounts, it is stated, in respect of a guarantee of the capital of the £5,000,000 Preference shares of White Star Line, Ltd., and future dividends thereon, although there is every prospect that there will ultimately be a claim upon the company for the full amount of the guarantee. Any claim arising under this guarantee would rank after the Debenture stocks.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET

Business was practically at a standstill in the "street" market after hours last evening, and little of interest developed. In the American section only one or two fractional movements were evident. Radios were slightly harder at 6¼, as were Tractions at 12⅝. Canadas were bid for at 13½, Nickels at 27⅛, and "Emmies" at 31s. 6d. Woolworth gained a few pence to 111s. 9d., Fords closed at 41s. 7½d., and Steels were maintained at 34. Hydros were a shade lower at 5 1/16.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

SUPPORT FOR IRON AND STEEL ISSUES

Although the competition of new issues affected business to some extent when dealings started for the new account in the Industrial Market yesterday, the tone generally continued firm. There was rather more doing on this side in the trans-Atlantic counters, but prices moved in irregular fashion, finishing steady in the late dealings.

Cables and Wireless stocks had a quiet appearance, and showed little alteration.

A strong feature in the Iron and Steel section was provided by Tube Investments, renewed demand for which raised the price 1s. 3d. to 52s.

Firmness was displayed by Motor shares, under the lead of Austins, which benefited from the statements at the meeting, the price rising 1/16 to 7 5/16, after allowing for the dividend reduction.

A fair amount of interest was taken in Aviation and kindred descriptions, among which De Havillands recovered 7½d. to 59s.

Although irregular in places, Breweries generally made a satisfactory showing on the whole.

In the Tobacco section most of the interest centred around Gallahers, and, after allowing for the dividend deduction, finished 1/16 to the good at 4⅝.

Drapery and Departmental Store shares made a rather mixed showing. Marks and Spencers came in for some scattered selling, and declined to 11⅛, but Woolworths hardened to 111s. 9d.

Provision and Catering descriptions were neglected, and little change took place on balance.

Textiles did not display any definite tendency, and price movements were restricted.

Rayon issues were inclined to be on the dull side. Courtaulds encountered some selling, and changed hands down to 46s. 4½d., but rallied later, closing with a net decline of 10½d. at 46s. 3d.

British Oxygens again provided a firm feature in a rather irregular Miscellaneous section, changing hands up to 86s. 6d. ex-div., and finally closing at 85s. 6d. with a gain of 2s on balance. Dunlops recovered to 49s., but Harrisons and Crosfields Defd. were a shade easier at 7 ex-div. United Molasses were again bid for up to 22s. 4½d., leaving off a little below the best at 22s.

OILS STEADY

Oil shares commenced the week and the new account in more cheerful fashion. Advices received over the week-end from New York in regard to the course of American Oil stocks were more encouraging, and help was derived from the fact that Royal Dutch advanced on Saturday last in Amsterdam.

In arrangement of the final details of the carry-over nothing of special interest transpired. The general charge for the continuation of bargains was shown 3½-4½ per cent., the only notable exceptions being the Eagle issues, which were arranged on the basis of 2½-4 per cent. Open position remains small, and contangoes were arranged quite easily.

A moderate local interest, coupled with buying on Paris account, particularly of Royal Dutch, and an inclination of operators in New York to purchase international counters in the afternoon resulted in higher prices being general for the leading issues.

RUBBERS STEADIER

Among Rubber shares the decrease by 1,291 tons in the stocks in the United Kingdom was a cheerful factor. London's holding increased by 1,242 tons to 57,272, but at Liverpool shipments exceeded deliveries by 2,533 tons, the present stock being 54,944 tons. The price of the commodity was rather steadier and spot changed hands up to 7 3/16d. per lb. Share movements were few, but the general tone was more favourable. Malacca lost 1s. 9d., but Anglo-Dutch, Anglo-Malay, Rim Malacca, Rubber Trust and Vallambrosa all gained a few pence.

THE MONEY MARKET

GOLD'S NEW HIGH RECORD

The price of gold yesterday rose 3d. to 142s. 6d. per fine ounce. This is a new high record, the previous highest being 142s. 4d., touched on October 5. Prems. ⅛d. over the dollar at 4.91⅞, and 8⅛d. over the franc at 74¼, are included in the price. About £320,000 was disposed of in the market.

Short loans were in small demand at ½ to ¾ p.c., while bill rates kept steady, fine three months' bills being quoted at ⅞ p.c. The "hot" Treasuries were on offer at 13/16 p.c.

Silver rose ⅛d. to 22⅞d. per ounce for spot, and 23d. for forward delivery on speculative buying. China was selling at the rise. This price is the highest touched since November, 1929.

Sterling continued to lose ground against the continental gold currencies and the dollar in the Foreign Exchange market in London yesterday. Though business was by no means on a large scale the market was quite active, and rates fluctuated constantly through the day.

The London "control" was in the market from time to time giving a little support to the pound, but the final rate on Paris was, nevertheless, the lowest closing quotation ever recorded, while rates on all other centres were lower than on Saturday.

LONDON MINING MARKET SLOW

PRICES EASIER

No material improvement in conditions in the Mining market was observable on the resumption of business yesterday, and, with the accumulation of public orders, small dealings were restricted.

Kaffirs opened dull, despite the record price of 142s. 6d. per ounce for the price of gold and on fairly heavy offering from the Cape, where the over-speculation of recent months is being curtailed, caused a general recession in prices.

Prices were allowed to drift, and, although a rather better tendency prevailed towards the close, changes almost without exception were against holders, and losses here and there being of substantial proportions.

Rhodesians presented no outstanding features, but some of the Copper issues were harder.

There was very little doing in West Africans or in East Africans. Closing prices:—

HOME ECONOMICS

TALKS TO HOUSEWIVES

The growing use of refrigerators, not only for hotels and public institutions, but also in the home, makes Margaret Tew's lectures on the subject particularly interesting. She is a lecturer on home economics, and is giving talks to housewives in Messrs. Pim Brothers' premises, South Great George's street, Dublin, each morning and afternoon this week.

Her qualifications as a member of the Institute of Hygiene and of the Institute of Dietetics make her lectures rather unusual, and in the first, given yesterday afternoon, she told her audience something about "cold cookery," in other words, some uses for the Electrolux refrigerators, which she demonstrated, and which are not generally thought of by prospective purchasers.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Rush for the Carroll Issue

The lists in connection with the offer for sale to the public of 376,848 6 per Cent. Cumulative Preference Shares and 80,000 Ordinary Shares of the above company were closed at fifteen minutes after opening yesterday morning. Over 6,000 applications have been received, applying for more than 1,750,000 shares. Due to the very large number of applications there may be some delay in posting the letters of acceptance and regret, but we learn that it is hoped to post these towards the end of the present week, and dealings will commence in the shares early next week. The prospectus was published in the Irish Times on Friday last.

Record High Price for Gold

Gold in the London bullion market reached a new high record yesterday of 142/6 per fine ounce. This was an advance of 3d. on Saturday's quotation. The gold price "peaks" in recent weeks are:—September 3—141/7 per ounce. October 2—142/2½ per ounce. October 5—142/4 per ounce.

New Gold Dredging Company

Preparations are well advanced for the formation of the new gold dredging company of the Anglo-Oriental Mining Corporation. It is understood that the company will be formed this week. In the course of his speech at Wednesday's meeting of the Anglo-Oriental, the Chairman, Mr. John Howeson, referred in some detail to one of the company's unquoted interests, a gold dredging on the Tano River in West Africa. Exhaustive data, he said, indicated that there was a sufficient yardage of rich alluvial to justify the formation of at least one successful gold dredging concern.

East Rand New Capital

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of East Rand Proprietary Mines will be convened for the purpose of considering, and, if thought fit, increasing the capital of the company from £1,500,000 to £1,800,000 by the creation of 600,000 new shares of 10s. each, which will be offered for subscription by shareholders at £2 5s. per share in the proportion of one new share for every five shares held. The new shares will rank for dividends declared subsequently to 1st January, 1935. The new issue will be underwritten jointly by the Central Mining and Investment Corporation and the General Mining and Finance Corporation for a cash commission of 2½ per cent. The company's technical advisers have recommended the sinking of a new vertical shaft approximately 4,500 feet south-east of the Angelo vertical shaft. They also have recommended the increase of the milling capacity to 200,000 tons per month when the south-west vertical shaft now being sunk is brought into commission.

CHESS

THE TOURNEY OPENS

A change has been made in the programme for this year's championship tourney. Each competitor has to play three games with each of the others instead of two, as was formerly the rule. This will entail a morning session on Friday.

In the first game of the tourney, played yesterday morning, the novice of the party, Mr. W. J. L. O'Connell, of Cork, whose first appearance it was in contests of this standard, marked himself out for future distinction of no ordinary kind. He was matched against J. J. O'Hanlon (Ulster), the only Irish player with a reputation in England and abroad in master play. The game adopted was the Queen's Gambit Declined, and for an opening of the kind the spectators were treated to play of an open and almost sprightly order.

Black castled at the 7th move, but White, by reserving this operation, held out prospects of vigorous attacks in various quarters, some of which were put out of gear by Black's 12th move, Q—R 4. To reach this stage the latter had taken thirty minutes to Mr. O'Connell's twenty minutes. The Munsterman here took his longest pause before throwing forward his pawn to KB 4. At the next move he castled on K side, with a good strategic position. He then proceeded gallantly to press on, and a lively interchange followed, White completing his 20th move in 38 minutes, while Black had reached 57 minutes, just 3 minutes inside the limit.

White's 23 Kt.—Q 5 continued the lively vein of play, and Black exchanged queens in a very interesting position. White's moves now came almost rapidly, as if in pursuance of a line already though out, until he paused a long time before 27 B—QB 7, a better move than that which some of the onlookers had in view. At the 29th move the initiative was still with White, and he appeared to have the more promising game. All his fine play, however, was now reduced to nought when he decided to exchange rooks, overlooking the fact that, at the end of this transaction, both his remaining pieces would be en prise, and one of them must be lost. He bowed to the inevitable, and resigned a game in which he had shown himself a player of great strength and fine resource.

At the evening session Mr. C. J. Barry (Leinster) had the move against Mr. O'Connell, who played the French Defence, and the first dozen moves were simply angling for position. Black seemed to have more freedom of choice, and he moved more rapidly, taking 30 minutes over fifteen moves to his adversary's 47 minutes.

Mr. O'Connell appeared to reject better alternatives through firm adhesion to the project of a King's side attack. White won a pawn by playing Bishop takes pawn (ch.), opening the path for Queen takes Bishop after his own Bishop was taken. Four moves later Black resigned. Thus Mr. O'Connell has lost to both opponents.

DAMAGES FOR ASSAULT

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ENNIS, Monday.

At Clare Circuit Court to-day William Hickey, Mountshannon, sued Patrick Brady, same address, for £25 damages for assault. Plaintiff swore that, as a result of the beating he got from defendant, he had been ten days in Raheen District Hospital, for which he had paid 15s., and £2 2s. to Dr. O'Connor, the medical officer.

After Dr. O'Connor had given medical evidence, Judge McElligott asked him did he think it fair to charge a poor man £2 2s. for whom hospitals such as the Raheen District Hospital were intended.

Dr. O'Connor replied that he was a private practitioner outside of his hospital work. He had attended plaintiff in his private capacity before his admission to hospital, and charged him £1 1s. The other guinea had been for a report to his solicitor on his condition.

The Judge gave a decree for £10 10s. and £2 2s. expenses.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

A Bay Window : John Butler Yeats : A Restaurant Romance : A Dublin Radio Star : From the Gate

A Radio Star

Dubliners will be interested to hear that Mrs. J. M. Radcliffe, well-known to wireless listeners for her work in radio plays and recitals of modern verse from the B.B.C. in Belfast, Glasgow, and London National, was formerly Miss Margery Lumsden, third daughter of Sir John and Lady Lumsden, of Dublin. Before her marriage fifteen months ago to Mr. John Radcliffe, of Weybridge, Surrey, Margery Lumsden was well known to Dublin playgoers for her performances with Mrs. May Carey's Company, in which she played the leading juvenile parts. Her biggest successes with this company were Margaret, the dream child in "Dear Brutus," Hester in "The Silver Cord," and Mary in "Rutheford and Son," at the Gate Theatre. Later she took up broadcasting, and was particularly successful in the children's hour, for which she performed her own stories and songs at the piano. Many of her broadcasts were performed in partnership with Mr. Denis Carey (now playing Parnell at the Abbey) under the title of "Kip and Pip, the Twins." Her broadcasting was so successful that in response to numerous letters from listeners some of her most popular songs and lyrics are now being published shortly in the form of an illustrated children's album. The book is called "Boldtoes," has a short introduction by Sir Henry Lytton, is charmingly illustrated, and consists of eight chorus songs about animals, with a connecting story relating the adventures of that famous family, the Boldtoes—Littletoe, Bigtoe and Bubblybold.

And a Film Star

Another local good girl to make good is Miss Geraldine FitzGerald, who made such a promising début at the Gate Theatre last season in "Wuthering Heights" and "Madchen in Uniform." While on a visit to London this summer Miss Fitzgerald was seen by a member of a firm of film agents and was immediately sent down to the studios, where she was given a small part in a film and a contract on the result. She is now being groomed for stardom and seems to be heading for fame and incidentally fortune. Geraldine FitzGerald is a niece of Shelah Richards, of Abbey Theatre fame, and, therefore, a niece by marriage of Denis Johnston, whose play "The Moon in the Yellow River" is making a big success at the Westminster, London's newest repertory theatre. All the London critics have hailed it as the best play of the year, and there is every likelihood of its going to the West End. Film magnates and theatre managers, among them John Barrymore, have been crowding to see it, and there is also a possibility of seeing it filmed before long. The rights of Denis Johnston's last play, "Storm Song," have been acquired by the New York Theatre Guild. At present he is working as assistant producer and stage manager to the Westminster Theatre, and he and his wife, Shelah Richards, who is playing in "The Moon in the Yellow River," are living on a houseboat off Chiswick Mall, at Hammersmith. It seems unlikely that Dublin will see Denis Johnston for some time.

Emo Park

I hear that Dr. T. J. Dwan, of Maryboro', Coroner for Leix, has acquired the shooting rights on the Emo Park estate. He has formed a club, the members of which number some of the best guns in Ireland.

Emo Park is the Irish seat of the Earls of Portarlington, and some years ago the Jesuit Fathers took over the mansion, which they use as a novitiate. The Earl spends most of his time at his London house in Chesham place.

Dr. Dwan is director, as well as promoter, of the new club—a badly needed institution in Leix. They held their first big pheasant shoot last week, when about thirty guns turned out, and they finished up a perfect day's sport with a dinner in Airds Hotel, Maryboro'.

John Butler Yeats

The portrait of Father Dinneen, which has been presented to the National Gallery, is not by Mr. Jack B. Yeats, as many believe, but by his distinguished father, John Butler Yeats. It was executed many years ago, before the great artist left for the United States, leaving a void in Dublin life, and being welcomed in the great city of New York, where he was the centre of a brilliant circle. Yet no one entering the Abbey Theatre but will remember the artist of the Literary Renaissance. I believe all the portraits in the theatre, with the exception of that of Miss Allgood, which Miss Purser presented two years ago, are by John Butler Yeats.

Making Conversation

Mr. Yeats was a great conversationalist. After dinner he could talk for hours and entrance his listeners. His studio in St. Stephen's Green was the rendezvous of the literati, and it was here he painted the brothers Fay and the other paintings with which we are so familiar. He was a marvellous walker, and each evening when he left his work walked to Dundrum from St. Stephen's Green, and thought nothing of the journey. He often walked in the mornings the same road. But those were in the days when people thought as little of going from the extreme South side after a little party to the North as we do of tripping from the Pillar to O'Connell Bridge to-day.

Romance of a Restaurant

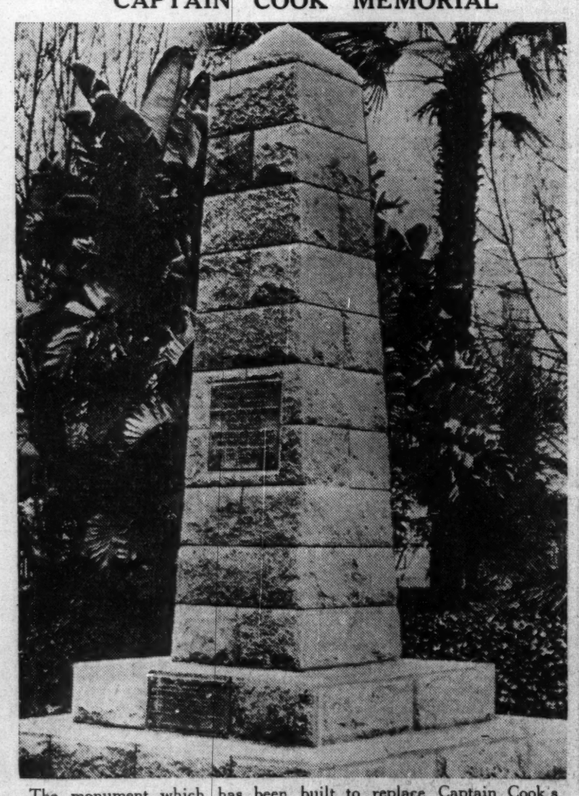

When Mr. Yeats left Ireland to see the New World he went to reside in a house in 17th street, New York, kept by three Breton peasants. The sisters opened an underground restaurant, where nice little French dinners were served at very moderate prices and where the Bohemians foregathered. As soon as Mr. Yeats's friends began to arrive—and they included all the genius of the city—the fame of the hostelry was made. In no short time the curious came too in order to watch the lions feast. So popular became Pettepas that after a time it was impossible to reserve a table, and with the reputation of the good soup and excellent wine the Sisters Pettepas began to grow more emboldened. Prices went up, and only friends of the house were encouraged. Indeed, it became quite a fashionable place, when senators and distinguished writers and wits and artists dined there. After the War the Mdlles. Pettepas returned to France, having made a fortune, as people said, of 400,000 francs, and bought a chateau. But there are those who will tell you that John Butler Yeats was responsible for the great fortune. His table was the place of the élite to the last, and he died in the Pettepas home, where he was beloved; for no inducements of his family could tear him away from that brilliant circle where he was the lion.

The Bay-Window

A friend who is interested in the history of old Dublin houses sends me the following anecdote concerning No. 14 Harcourt street, once the residence of Sir Jonah Barrington, well-known as the historian of Grattan's Parliament. Sir Jonah had married the daughter of a rich Dublin silk mercer, and his wife was accustomed to sit in the bay-window of the Harcourt street house. This window overlooked the residence of Lord Clonmell, and anyone posted in it could observe the movements of that nobleman's family across the intervening space. Eventually Lord Clonmell approached Sir Jonah, and asked him to have the window closed up, a request which was promptly refused. Lady Clonmell, however, set about the affair with feminine subtlety. She suggested to her friends in Dublin society that Lady Barrington, of course, had been so long accustomed to look out of shop windows that she now found it impossible to dispense with the habit. This scathing comment soon had the desired effect, and the bay-window was bricked up.

FILM NOTES.

Likes and Dislikes at the Cinema

A Matter of Opinion ; Films of the Week : Lee Tracy Again : Another Musical Picture

FROM OUR FILM CORRESPONDENT.

"'Tis with our judgments as our watches; none
Go just alike, yet each believes his own."

. . . and in few connections, perhaps, do our judgments differ so much as in the cinema. Why, for instance, when everyone around me is rocking with laughter at Wheeler and Woolsey (who appear this week at the Capitol in "Cockeyed Cavaliers"), should I be so completely unable to see anything funny in their antics? There are some people, I know, who refuse to smile at anything on the screen except it is by Rene Clair, Walt Disney, or Chaplin, and to whom the mere fact that a comedian is "popular" is enough to damn him. I do not think, however, that my apathy to Wheeler and Woolsey comes from a "highbrow" dislike of them. On the contrary, so far as the screen is concerned, the broader the fun is the better I like it. I would go quite a distance to see Charlie Chase, and almost anywhere in reason to see Laurel and Hardy, Eddie Cantor or Harold Lloyd—none of whom can be accused of putting any very great strain on the intellect.

* * * * *

MANY film actors, especially the comedians, have an appeal that is almost universal, but as regards the others, we can only fall back on the cliché that opinions differ. Wheeler and Woolsey come into the latter class—some people delight in them, and others, with the same outlook and apparently the same tastes, cannot stand them. The most curious case, of course, is that of the Four Marx Brothers, and the only two opinions I have ever heard advanced on them are (a) that they are senseless clowns, and (b) that they are inspired comedians. Where they are concerned there seems to be no middle course betwen admiration and horror.

* * * * *

The Banned List

VERY often one comes across a competition in the newspapers which consists in asking people to name their favourite film stars; but it would be much more interesting to ask them whom they dislike, and why. The only drawback is that so few people can give any reason, though nearly everyone has a mental list of stars that he or she avoids. My own list includes, among others, Gracie Fields, Joe E. Brown, Bing Crosby, Jackie Cooper, Baby Leroy, Maurice Chevalier and Janet Gaynor; but if asked to state my case against them I should have no reply at all. Many of my friends, on the other hand, heartily detest some of my best favourites, such as Greta Garbo and Lee Tracy. Where there are so many prejudices it is hard to appreciate the stars at their proper value, and still harder, I admit, to give a balanced account of their films in print.

* * * * *

ALSO, the "banned list" has a way of changing, insensibly. George Arliss, for example, seemed to me a very fine actor when his first films came out, whereas now he is beginning to seem rather a bore. Janet Gaynor, on the other hand, having taken and held a very high place on the list, has almost removed herself from it since I saw "State Fair" and "The House of Connelly." Another case in point is Jack Oakie, whom I have disliked quite heartily for some years, and yet who, when I saw him yesterday in "Looking for Trouble" at the Metropole, amused me a great deal.

* * * * *

This Week's Films

Perhaps, it is time to stop these speculations and to describe the principal films in Dublin this week. "Looking for Trouble" is very American: ostensibly it is about the hard and adventurous life of those who have to track down and repair the faults of the telephone system, but actually there is far more of romance in it than of real life. Jack Oakie and Spencer Tracy (they make a good team) are seen involved in love affairs, foiling bank robbers, and getting mixed up in earthquakes. It moves at a great speed, and there is a good deal of comedy in it—also very American.

* * * * *

"COCKEYED CAVALIERS" shows us Wheeler and Woolsey back in the Middle Ages, having brought with them their cigars, horn-rimmed spectacles and stock of wisecracks. Thelma Todd is also in the cast.

* * * * *

Lee Tracy's Latest

LEE TRACY is a little more subdued than usual in "Turn Back the Clock," which is being shown at the Savoy. Tracy is one of the newest arrivals among the film stars, and specialises in what one might call "semi-tough" parts. Several of his pictures (all good) appeared in Dublin during the strike, and he is undoubtedly a man to see, if one does not object to a continual flow of American jargon, rapid action, and a general atmosphere of unscrupulousness.

In his latest picture the tone is slightly changed, and not, I think, for the better. Although the tale is ingenious in its own way, it carries with it one of those ready-made morals in which Hollywood seems to delight—that riches do not always make for happiness. Tracy, a small and moderately prosperous shopkeeper, gets his wish to live his life all over again, and finds, of course, that he was better off in his original state. Nothing in which Tracy appears can help being amusing and interesting, but this class of film is a little too obvious to do him justice.

* * * * *

Another Kiepura Film

JAN KIEPURA, who started well in "City of Song," and went on to attain enormous popularity with "Tell Me Tonight," appears in a new film this week at the Grand Central—"My Song for You." It is the usual mixture of sentiment, operatic singing and light comedy, not, perhaps, so skilfully put together as its predecessor, but quite good enough to be a big success. Kiepura combines a fine voice with a pleasant appearance (though he is not very strong when it comes to acting), and Sonnie Hale provides most of the comedy. The story, as is usual in these musical films, does not really matter very much.

* * * * *

"MAN OF ARAN" has now arrived in New York, and, so we are told, "a huge sign, probably the largest in Broadway," is being put up in preparation for its première in New York. Other British-made films that seem to be enjoying great popularity in the United States are "Jew Suss" and "Chu Chin Chow"; and it is said that about 20,000 people attended the showings of the former picture in the course of a single day. Neither of these pictures, incidentally, has come to Dublin yet, and I wonder when we may expect them.

* * * * *

MARY BROUGH, who died in London last week, belongs more to the stage than to the screen; for she started her theatrical career in 1881, and continued it up to the time of her death. Yet she will also be remembered with affection by that wider public to whom the coming of the talking film introduced her, and perhaps those few years before the camera brought her more fame than all the years that had gone before. She was a fine comedian, and the Ralph Lynn and Tom Walls farces owed a great deal of their success to her.

* * * * *

Films to See Again

"BLOSSOM TIME," now in its fourth week at the Grafton. A musical romance, with tunes by Schubert and some fine singing by Richard Tauber.

"Princess Charming," at the Carlton. A musical comedy film which Max Miller "steals" from Evelyn Laye by some very comic acting.

"Noah's Ark," at the Pavilion, Dun Laoghaire. One of the best of the coloured Silly Symphonies.

"Tugboat Annie," at the Sandford (until Thursday). The last film in which Marie Dressler appeared.

ON THE WIRELESS

Daily Programme Review.

DUBLIN: Dominick Street Ladies' Choir. Conductor, Turner Huggard, 7.30.

BELFAST: Radio Exhibition relays, 3.30 and 8.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: Symphony Concert, 8.15.

ALL REGIONALS: "Autumn Manœuvres," music by Kálmán, 9.

SCOTTISH REGIONAL: Light Orchestral Concert, 8.

VIENNA: Wagner Concert. Conductor, Toscanini, 7.5.

PRAGUE: Czech Philharmonic Orchestra, 7.

AS promised, we are to hear something of what is going on at the Belfast Radio Exhibition. This afternoon we shall have a relay of the Romany Orchestra, which is playing there at 3.30, and to-night a Variety programme from the Broadcasting Theatre which has been specially erected in the balcony of King's Hall, Balmoral, where the Exhibition is being held. This will come at 8.

There are two concerts to-night which are conspicuous in the B.B.C. programmes. The first of them will have the stronger appeal for listeners in this country, since the programme includes two movements from Harty's "Irish Symphony," to be directed by Sir Hamilton Harty himself. Sir Hamilton also will conduct the performance of two of Stanford's "Sea Songs"—"Drake's Drum" and "The Old Superb." These songs never lack spirit, even if sung only to a pianoforte accompaniment, but to-night they will be given by Harold Williams (baritone) and the Liverpool Philharmonic Chorus and Orchestra. Who could resist that?

The occasion is a complimentary concert to Mr. W. J. Riley, secretary to the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, who is celebrating his jubilee in that capacity.

Other eminent conductors who will do him honour in the same programme are Sir Thomas Beecham, Dr. Adrian Boult and Dr. J. E. Wallace (permanent conductor of the Liverpool Philharmonic Choir). The soloists are Dora Labbette (soprano), Harold Williams (baritone) and Solomon (pianoforte), who will be supported by the Liverpool Philharmonic Chorus and Orchestra. (North Regional, 7.30.) The concert will be followed by a presentation to Mr. Riley by the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, and the proceedings will be relayed.

At 8.15 (Droitwich), after an absence of over a year owing to a long illness, Dr. Malcolm Sargent will return to the microphone. He will conduct the London Symphony Orchestra in a performance of Haydn's Symphony No. 102 in B flat, and "The New World" Symphony of Dvorak.

Sir James Jeans, F.R.S., who has done so much to make science understandable to the man in the street, will endeavour to further that by giving a series of microphone talks which aim at conveying a popular idea of the universe. In these talks listeners are to travel in their imaginations with Sir James through time and space, and before starting they will first examine their home in space—the earth. The first talk, therefore, is entitled "Our Home in Space—the Earth," and will be broadcast at 10 on the Droitwich wave-length.

PRINCESS MARINA'S WEDDING DRESS

TO BE MADE ENTIRELY IN LONDON

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

Princess Marina's wedding dress is to be made entirely in London. As a gracious gesture, however, to the country where she has lived so long, she has chosen a material—a wonderful silver brocade, into which the design of an English rose has been woven—of French manufacture.

The dress will be far more elaborate than the Princess had originally intended, and will be fully in keeping with the magnificence of a royal wedding at Westminster Abbey. It will be cut in long, straight lines, without a waistline, and will be distinctly mediæval in effect. From the shoulders will hang a court train, some four or five feet long, and lined with silver lamé, and the dress will be completed with a beautiful veil of white tulle and old family lace, which was worn by the Princess Nicholas her mother, and also by her sister, at their weddings.

On her head she will wear a bandeau of diamonds, and she will carry a sheaf of Madonna lilies.

The number of the Princess's bridesmaids has not yet been definitely fixed, but it is believed that there will be eight. They will wear white crepe—a favourite material of Princess Marina's—flecked with silver.

The Princess will leave for London at the end of this month, when it is expected that the wedding dress will be ready for her inspection and for fitting.

AT THE THEATRE

THREE REVUE PERFORMANCES

In presenting "Ca C'Est Paris," this week's revue at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, the producers have kept the best until the last. In other words, the second half of the show is rather better than the first. It moves quickly and brightly through eighteen scenes, with Billy Kray, the comedian, getting plenty of humour into his appearances and cracking many jokes—both old and new.

"The Shirt Question" in politics forms the subject for an entertaining skit, with Nicholas Hill and William Hewett as members of rival "shirt" organisations, and Billy Kray as the bewildered "man in the street." William Hewett also appears as a vocalist and Miss Norah Walker sings several good songs. Circus Games provide an opportunity for some unusual dancing by the Hollywood girls, and in a subsequent act, "Impressions of the Circus," Dorvay and Dorette give a novelty dance. Le Diable Volant is a clever acrobatic number contributed by Les Urrutys. Several of the sketches are quite amusing and the settings, particularly that for "Deep Sea Treasures," are well designed and colourful.

The Royal Four are among the artistes appearing in the revue, "Stepping Out," in the Olympia Theatre, Dublin, this week. In a selection of songs their voices harmonise well. The revue comprises nineteen scenes. It was produced under the supervision of Joe Poynton and Alf Torbutt, comedian, who appeared frequently in the entertainment. The "Legend of Japan" was a pretty addition, that was carried through with artistic pose and delicate expression. Kidd and Tracy were good in song and dances, and other dancers were Henry Le Cren, and Mantzi and Maritza.

"Identity Parade," with Marion Nixon as the feminine lead, is the picture attraction at the Queen's Theatre, Dublin, this week, and it is supported on the stage by another of Mr. Lorcan Bourke's revues, which is entitled. "1934 Revels." The cast of the stage production included the Japanese acrobats, the brothers Kiratu, in a comedy act; the Two Ladds, a pair of comedians, and Royce and King. The cast is supplemented by the "Queen's Moonbeams" dancing troupe.

THE ABBEY THEATRE

"PARNELL OF AVONDALE"

Dr. W. R. Fearon's new play, "Parnell of Avondale," has been retained for another week at the Abbey Theatre, and was well received by a large audience last night. The play deals with Parnell's rise in Irish political life, his fall as a result of the famous meeting in "Committee Room 15," and his relations with Kitty O'Shea. The principal parts were well taken by Denis Carey (Parnell) and by Ria Mooney (Kitty O'Shea).

THE LOURDES PILGRIMAGE

WREATH LAID ON WAR MEMORIAL

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, Alderman Byrne, T.D., spent a busy day yesterday receiving visitors, following his return from the pilgrimage to Lourdes.

An unrecorded incident of the pilgrimage was the honour paid to French soldiers from Lourdes who had given their lives in the Great War. On the morning of their departure for Dublin Bishop MacNulty, Bishop Neville, the Very Rev. Father Pacificus, the Lord Mayor of Dublin and the Mayor of Clonmel, with the other pilgrims, attended at the Memorial to Fallen Soldiers and laid a wreath at its base in their honour.

As regards the sea route to Lourdes Alderman Byrne was enthusiastic. He met the engineer and officials of the Port of Le Verdon. The Bishops and Mr. Byrne congratulated them on the improved landing facilities at Le Verdon, which enable large liners of the Laurentic type to disembark passengers direct to the train for a through journey to Lourdes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"A NEW DEAL FOR IRELAND."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It is refreshing, in these days of wild theories and crude, undigested political schemes, to read a letter so full of sane commonsense as that of Mr. Hugh A. McHugh in your issue of October 4. It is good to see ourselves as others see us. Mr. McHugh, I presume, has learned to see Ireland from the American point of view, and has learned much from the fact. I have just returned from a visit to Ulster, and was much interested in hearing the views of Ulstermen in regard to the Irish Free State. I stayed with a representative citizen of Londonderry, and I asked him what he thought of the proposal that Northern Ireland should join up with the Irish Free State. "Do you want us to enter a lunatic asylum?" he replied. "We regard the policy of your present Government as madness. Only trade and prosperity depends upon union and co-operation with England. You are alienating and fighting with your best customer, who only wants to be your friend. Take our shipyards. We rely upon England for our orders. If we quarrel with her she will give them to the Clyde and the Tyne. Here in Derry we could manufacture in a week all the shirts that Ireland requires in a year. What are we to do for the rest of the year unless we can find external markets? We have free entry into the British market for all our agricultural produce, and they will take all that we can produce, if we send them the right stuff. It is no mere matter of sentiment, it is essentially a matter of business and £ s. d." He went on to say that the Irish Free State is living beyond its income; which means for a State, as for an individual, an inevitable financial crash, if such a policy is persisted in.

He stressed the fact that political stability is essential to business development. They were loyal to the King and Royal Family, and adhered to the United Kingdom and the British Empire because they regarded these as the surest guarantees of peace and stability. They would not touch a republic with a forty-foot pole. No one could tell what the reactions might be if the Irish Free State proclaimed itself a republic, completely outside the British Commonwealth. As long as that menace hung over the Irish Free State, he said, there could be no hope of a united Ireland.

The Irish Free State needs the shrewd commonsense and the business and industrial capacity of Northern Ireland. There is some hope of getting it, thus expressed by Mr. McHugh: "Those of the Irish people classified as the 'loyalist' group who always adhered to the traditional security and stability of English rule in some form or other, would welcome a Government for Ireland that offers the safeguards of a permanent alliance with England (not necessarily one that would entail any sacrifice of Ireland's national inheritance)."

But, unfortunately, when England made such a treaty of alliance, the Irish Free State deliberately has broken it. How are we to escape from the consequence of this breach of faith before the eyes of the world?

Whatever injuries England may have inflicted on Ireland in the distant past, no living Englishman is responsible for them. Modern England has tried her best to undo them, as far as it is possible to undo the past. Let us forget the past, and gratefully acknowledge that the English have no other feelings towards Ireland to-day than the desire to see her happy, united, prosperous and good friends.—Yours, etc.,

DUDLEY FLETCHER.

HANDEL IN IRELAND

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The City of Halle (Central Germany) is preparing to celebrate, in 1935, the 250th anniversary of the birth of her great son, the composer, G. F. Handel. We are, therefore, greatly interested in Handel's life and work, and specially collecting material concerning Handel's life in England. As we know that the great musician had many friends among the Irish, and was kindly welcomed by the Irish people when he visited Dublin, where his famous work, the "Messiah," was performed in a most wonderful way, we should like to draw the attention of the Irish people to the Halle Händel-Festival, 1935. We should greatly appreciate if we should hear from those of your readers who are in possession of letters, portraits, or MSS. of Handel, or who can give us any information concerning Handel's visit to Ireland. Would they kindly communicate with Dr. Liebenam, Deutsch-Englischer Kulturaustausch (Anglo-German Cultural Exchange), Halle/Saale Universitätsplatz 6.—Yours, etc.,

ELY CULBERTSON MAY VISIT DUBLIN

LECTURES ON CONTRACT BRIDGE

Ely Culbertson, the noted exponent of Contract Bridge, may visit Dublin next year if negotiations which are now being conducted prove successful. Captain R. G. McCall, an associate member of the Culbertson International Bridge Studio, who is delivering lectures at 3 p.m. and 4.30 p.m. each day this week in the Fabric Hall of Messrs. Brown Thomas's store in Grafton street, Dublin, is trying to make the arrangements, and yesterday he told an Irish Times representative that Mr. Culbertson was anxious to visit Dublin, and also for the Free State to enter a team for the Schwab Bridge trophy.

He would also like to see contests played between the Bridge Union of Northern Ireland, which has been recently formed, and the Free State Bridge Union for the championship of Ireland.

Captain McCall, in his lectures yesterday, dealt first with leads and play of the cards in progressive stages, proceeding to explain the Culbertson bidding system. All his lectures cover different aspects of the game, and should prove of considerable interest to Bridge players, particularly as he has expressed a willingness to meet enthusiasts before the lectures to answer any questions they care to put.

BATONED AND SHOT

RAIDERS' ATTACK ON FARMER

CASE BEFORE TRIBUNAL

THE shooting of a young farmer in Tipperary was described yesterday to the Military Tribunal (sitting at Collins Barracks, Dublin). Three men had arrived by car. One sought water for the car. When the farmer, Edward Kinane, went to get the water one man with a revolver attempted to hold him up. The farmer, however, seized the gun. The other raiders came to the first man's assistance. Kinane was injured about the head with a baton; a similar weapon injured Martin, a delicate brother. Kinane's mother narrowly escaped injury from a bullet. Finally, the struggling ended with Kinane falling to the floor, shot in the thigh.

The incident occurred during a time of tension at Thurles, County Tipperary, when the pound there had been the centre of "scenes." Horses had been seized and sold in default of the payment of poor rates. Kinane is a step-brother of the Thurles rate collector.

The Tribunal was considering the charges against four Tipperary men—ex-Colonel Jeremiah Ryan, Ballybeg, Littleton; Hubert Johnston, Dovea, Thurles; John Harty, Ballyvoneen, and James Cantwell, Moyne, Templemore.

The indictments charge the men jointly with (1) conspiracy to shoot Edward Kinane, with intent to murder; (2) "impairing the administration of justice and impeding the machinery of government"; (3) assault; (4) membership of an unlawful association; (5) unlawful possesion of firearms.

It was the fourth day of the hearing.

For the State, Messrs. J. Geoghegan, K.C., T.D., G. Gavan Duffy, K.C., and P. J. McEnery appeared (instructed by Mr. J. S. O'Connor, solicitor to the Attorney-General).

For the accused Ryan, Harty and Johnston there appeared Messrs. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C., J. FitzGerald-Kenney, K.C., T.D., S. Bourke, T.D. (instructed by Messrs. J. F D'Arcy and Co.).

For the accused Cantwell there appeared Messrs. V. Rice, K.C., T.D., and C. Lavery, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. P. Carrigan).

STORY OF SHOOTING

Ed. Kinane (29), Finaghey, Upperchurch, a farmer, said his step-brother was a rate-collector in Thurles. On 26th April last he was at home with his mother and his brother, Martin. As he was reading a book about 8.15 p.m. three strange men came in. One of them, who wore a bowler hat, asked the witness for a bucket of water for his motor car.

Witness was about to lift a bucket when the bowler-hatted man said, "Hands up!" That man the witness now knew was the prisoner, Johnston. There was a revolver in his hand, and he pressed it against the witness's chest.

The witness caught the revolver-barrel with his left hand, and seized the man by the collar of his trench coat with the other. He got hold of the revolver, and got in grips with Johnston. They were scuffling, and got into another room, the dining-room. Another of the three raiders then came and struck him four blows with a baton, two of them being upon the head. In the struggle around the room Johnston twice told the witness to let go the revolver. Witness said nothing, and Johnston fired. The bullet went near the witness's mother.

Then the third of the raiders fired. The shot struck witness on the left thigh.

"I fell," said the witness. "I was very badly injured, and a priest and doctor were sent for. The same night I was taken to Thurles Hospital, and was there for three weeks."

"My mother asked the three men what they had against me, but they did not answer. My brother, Martin, who is delicate, got two strokes of a baton."

Cross-examined by Mr. Fitzgerald-Kenney, K.C., about the identification, Kinane admitted he had picked out two Guards and two civilians at parades as being "like" his assailants. As to the assault, his head bled from the baton blows; after he was shot the men remained about two minutes looking at him. The struggle had lasted about five minutes.

Mrs. Margaret Kinane, mother of the last witness, said the third of the raiders cried to the two who were struggling with her son: "Why aren't you shooting?"

"They didn't say anything," continued the witness, "but immediately a shot rang out and down my son fell.

"He lay quite still. They stood over him without saying a word. Then they left. My son was bleeding terribly from his head and from the other wound. I put him to bed and bandaged him, and sent the neighbours for the priest and the doctor.

"My son is not the same man since. Before the outrage he was able to plough or do anything. He was very robust. Now he can only work a little and I consider him a delicate man. He is under the doctor's care still."

Superintendent Michael Buggy, Newport, produced Kinane's bloodstained clothing and the bullet which had been found in it. He stated that Cantwell, when questioned on arrest, said he was treasurer of the Moyne branch of the League of Youth. He had no firearms except a shot-gun, for which he held a licence. Johnston said he was a member of Thurles branch of the League of Youth.

Twenty-five witnesses for the prosecution gave evidence yesterday, making a total of over sixty since the case began. About twenty-five more witnesses will be called for the State. Special 'buses have had to be chartered for the conveyance of these witnesses.

The hearing was adjourned until to-day.

FLAX GROWING IN THE NORTH

LINEN INDUSTRY IN DANGER

DEPENDENT UPON RUSSIA IMPORTS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

A SERIOUS warning against the dependence of the Irish linen industry upon Russian flax was given to-day by Mr. Martin Wallace, B.Comm., in an address to the Belfast Rotary Club. He said that Northern Ireland was dependent on foreign sources for the supply of flax and tow to the extent of 95 per cent., and it was estimated that Soviet Russia now grew about 90 to 95 per cent. of the world's supply. The Russian export amounted to about 80,000 tons, of which approximately 30,000 tons came into Great Britain last year.

IDLE SPINDLES

If Russian exports were cut down, or a larger proportion of her exports were diverted elsewhere, a large proportion of the Belfast spindles would be brought to a standstill. "The position of our supplies for next year is, at the moment, extremely precarious," added Mr. Wallace "owing to political causes, and more especially an embargo on the purchase of foreign exchange. Germany is buying abnormally large quantities of flax and tow from Russia, partly to off-set Russian debts for machinery, and partly to limit the imports of cotton, jute, and hemp, a considerable proportion of which comes from countries within the British Empire.

Mr. Wallace explained that Germany was thus able to pay a very high price for her flax and tow, with the result that for the last two months her purchases had created a virtual "corner" in the available supplies of Russian material, and since November-December of last year Russian flax had risen in price by 70 per cent. and tow by 90 per cent., while against that the rise in yarn prices had been around 20 per cent.

RESEARCH WORK

Mr. Wallace said that the future of the Irish spinning industry was indissolubly bound up with research; he was quite confident that in a few years the flax factory system, in conjunction with provision of pedigree seeds, would revolutionise flax-growing in Ulster and make Ulster's supplies a significant part of the whole, instead of the miserable fraction it was at present.

He mentioned the valuable work done by the Linen Research Association.

The Northern Minister of Labour, the Right Hon. J. M. Andrews, said that Mr. Wallace had not exaggerated the dangers, and one could not but think with dread of the possibilities to Ulster if they were unable to obtain supplies of raw materials. Everything, he said, should be done to encourage the growth of flax in Northern Ireland, and that could only be achieved by making flax production a profitable side of the agricultural industry.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Wallace.

CIVIL SERVANTS RESTIVE

POST OFFICE WORKERS' CLAIM

The position in regard to the dispute between the Free State Government and three of its staff organisations remains unchanged. The claim of the Post Office Workers' Union for various increases of pay in thirty grades is at present being considered in detail by the Department of Finance.

The Civil Service Clerical Association maintains its attitude of protest against a forthcoming examination for promotions; and the majority of its members, who are eligible, have decided not to compete. No new development has occurred in regard to what the Civil Service Federation (which represents thirteen of the Service Associations) describes as a "serious deadlock" upon the question of permanent arbitration machinery.

HIBERNIAN CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Following on the Commissioning Service, conducted by the Archbishop of Dublin, in St. Ann's Church, Dublin, a report of which appeared in the Irish Times of Monday, 8th, a public meeting of farewell was held on the same evening in the H.C.M.S. Hall, 35 Molesworth street, Dublin. Mr. J. M. Mussen presided over a large gathering of friends and well-wishers, and the valedictory address was given by the Rev. Canon Parkinson Hill, M.A., formerly a C.M.S. missionary in Japan. The following Irish missionaries, all of whom are returning to the foreign field in the near future, were provided with seats on the platform, and several of them addressed the meeting:—Deaconess A. Armstrong, China; Dr. Henrietta Armstrong, China; the Rev. G. K. Carpenter, China; the Rev. R. Collier, a recruit for Kenya; Miss E. E. Good, Elgon; Miss R. M. Hanan, India; Archdeacon Mathers, Elgon; Miss W. Creed Meredith, India; Miss A. G. Murphy, N. Sudan; Dr. Charlotte A. Stuart, Egypt, and Miss J. F. Woodroffe, Persia.

Rumours that, following King Alexander's visit to Bulgaria, a secret pact had been concluded between Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, are reported in Sofia official circles to be without foundation.

Kiddies don't understand; they're so absorbed in their games, and often neglect nature's call. Then they get bilious, lose their appetite and become irritable.

Show me your tongue, Winnie. Yes, it is coated—a sure sign she's out of sorts. All she needs is 'California Syrup of Figs', and she'll be as happy as a sandboy in the morning.

You'll find it keeps the bowels regular, purifies the system and saves stomach upsets and biliousness.

If children are to thrive and grow strong and keen witted, they must feed well and digest what they eat. There's no better way than the regular weekly dose of 'California Syrup of Figs.' All children love it.

If I were you, I would send for a bottle now and give Winnie a dose at once. There is a 1/3 size, but you will find the 2/6 size a great saving.

Be sure you insist on 'California Syrup of Figs' brand Mrs. Grant. I am surprised that some mothers are ready to experiment with cheap and drastic preparations. It's such a pity they don't realise that 'California Syrup of Figs' is a perfectly safe children's laxative. I knew myself how carefully and scientifically it is prepared."

MAN IN A DUG-OUT

WANTED TO GO STRAIGHT

(BEFORE MR. E. J. LITTLE.)

Martin Mulvey (40), unmarried, no fixed abode, was summoned under the Vagrancy Act.

Guard Farragher (114 E) stated that he went to a field belonging to the Dublin Brick Company off Crumlin road, and found a dug-out, six feet square, covered with corrugated iron. Mulvey was under the corrugated iron, lying on the springs of an old motor car. In the dug-out there was a stove, and electric light was available through the medium of an apparatus which he had fitted up in it. Mulvey said that he had been living there on and off for the past six months.

Defendant—"I wanted to be alone. I was charged last November with burglary and pleaded guilty, and I promised Judge Davitt that I would be good if I got a chance. There is a 'tip' in the Brick Company's field where there is a lot of old brass and aluminium to be got from old motor cars, and the tools the Guards found with me were for the purpose of dealing with that material. I was not in the dug-out for an illegal purpose."

The defendant was remanded until Thursday.

"THE ANIMAL GANG"

CITY ASSAULT CASES

Peter Collins and Edward King were charged on remand by Inspector T. Maher with seriously assaulting John Ryan at the Arcade, Henry street, on Wednesday afternoon. All the parties live in North Cumberland street—Collins at No. 7, King at 31, and Ryan at 33.

On Thursday evidence was given by Ryan that as he was passing through the Arcade from Henry street the previous day he was attacked by a number of men, two of whom were the accused men. It was alleged that one of the defendants struck Ryan with an iron bar on the head, and the Guards found a police baton subsequently at the scene of the alleged assault. The defendant, King, in evidence yesterday, said that he was in Chatham row on Wednesday last looking for relief, and did not assault Ryan.

Mr. Campbell, solicitor (who defended Collins and King), examined three women, who stated that King was at the relief offices in Chatham row at the time of the alleged assault.

Peter Collins stated that he was in a picture house on Wednesday and did not see Ryan at all that afternoon.

Six witnesses supported the alibi put forward by Collins.

Ryan said that this was all part of the work of the "animal gang." He was positive that Collins and King assaulted him. The third man who assaulted him had not been arrested.

The Justice convicted both men of common assault and sentenced them to one month's imprisonment, with hard labour.

John Ryan was then charged with maliciously damaging a door in 7 North Cumberland street, where Peter Collins lived, and sentenced to one month's imprisonment, with hard labour.

When the result was announced there was some cheering in Court, which was promptly suppressed. It was taken up by a number of people in the Court-yard, but they were dispersed by the Guards.

Ryan was protesting against the sentence as he was removed to the cells.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

William O'Reilly (44), a bookkeeper, of 6a Cecil avenue, Clontarf, was charged with having whilst employed by Messrs. Phelan and Co., Ltd., South Brown street, embezzled sums of £7, £2 10s., £20 10s., £4 15s., £1 7s. 6d. and £21 14s. 7d., received by him on behalf of his employers.

Detective Officers Cryan and Finn had charge of the case.

Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor, defended.

Evidence in support of the charges was given by several witnesses.

The defendant stated in evidence that he is married and has two children. He was employed by Messrs. Phelan as bookkeeper at 50s. a week. He had previously been employed by a firm as traveller at £375 a year, but lost that position through the cutting down of staff. When employed by Messrs. Phelan to collect accounts he lost £5 and then commenced gambling to retrieve it. He hoped with the assistance of his friends to recoup Messrs. Phelan their loss, amounting to £50 odd.

Mr. Burne asked the Justice, in view of the defendant's excellent character previously, to deal leniently with him.

The charge having been reduced to simple larceny, the Justice applied the Probation Act and allowed the defendant out on bail on his own undertaking to pay back the money within eighteen months.

The defendant was then discharged.

SALE OF SHEEP DIP

MANUFACTURING CHEMISTS FINED

(BEFORE MR. HANNON.)

A number of summonses came on for hearing in which the plaintiff was James Wedick, an inspector of the Pharmaceutical Society of Ireland, and the defendants were Messrs. Osmond and Son, Ltd., manufacturing chemists, Little Ship street, Dublin. In one summons the defendants were summoned for selling, on 26th April last, to Mr. Wedick, who was unknown to them, sheep dip containing arsenic, and in another summons the defendants were summoned for not having a proper entry made of the sale, and having it signed by the purchaser. A third summons was for the sale being made by a non-qualified person. Three similar summonses were issued in respect of similar sales to the same plaintiff on the 3rd May and the 28th May last.

Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Car'an O'Meara and Kieran) argued that the summonses were bad, as under the Poison Acts proceedings could not be initiated by a "common informer," but should be undertaken under the fiat of the Attorney-General.

Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. J. Gaynor), for the Society, submitted that, if Mr. FitzGerald's point was good, every petty case brought by the Guards would have to be submitted to the Attorney-General for his approval, and all the proceedings in that Court during the past ten years were bad.

Formal evidence was given by Mr. Wedick as to the purchase of the sheep dip.

Mr. FitzGerald said that they had a registered druggist in charge, and one of the days on which Mr. Wedick called for the sheep dip was in Horse Show Week, when the registered druggist was in charge of the firm's exhibit at Ballsbridge. Mr. Wedick posed as a farmer from Monaghan, and called and asked for Mr. McElhinney, the registered druggist, but as he was away the sale was made by an unauthorised person, who had now been prohibited from making any more sales in the absence of Mr. McElhinney.

Mr. McElhinney, managing director of the defendant company, said that they employed over fifty people. There were no retail sales at their Ship street factory, and Mr. O'Brien, who made the sales in question, had no authority to do so. He himself had on occasions sold sheep dip purely as an obligement to farmers coming up from the country, but a prohibition against such sales had since been issued.

The Justice held that the complainant was entitled to prosecute as a "common informer," and that an offence was committed by the defendants by the sale of the sheep dip to Mr. Wedick, who was unknown to them. He also held that an offence was committed by failure to get the purchaser to sign for the poison. He also convicted on the third summons. He imposed a fine of 20s. on each of the three summonses in respect of the first purchase. He adjourned the summonses referring to the other dates on which purchases were made. He allowed 16 guineas costs and 3 guineas expenses.

A verdict of death from natural causes was returned at an inquest at Dunstable yesterday on Gordon Frederick Marsh (12), a pupil at Dunstable Grammar School. Marsh collapsed after a practice game of Rugby football on Friday and died at the school an hour later.

DEATH FROM BURNS

"Accidental death from toxæmia, following extensive burns," was the verdict returned by a jury, sitting with Dr. D. A. MacErlean, Dublin City Coroner, at an inquest in Steevens's Hospital yesterday on the body of Mrs. Lucy Cox (36), of Finn street, North Circular road, Dublin, a cook employed in the headquarters of the Civic Guards at Kilmainham, who died in the hospital on 7th October. It appeared from evidence given that when Mrs. Cox was attending to the fire in the cook-house on 17th September a spurt of flame set fire to her clothes. She immediately jumped into a trough of water, which put out the flames. Having had her burns treated at Kilmainham she was taken to Steevens's Hospital, where she died.

Mr. Sean Ryan, solicitor, appeared for the authorities at Kilmainham. Inspector Curran represented the Civic Guards.

OPENING OF MICHAELMAS LAW TERM

In connection with the opening of the Michaelmas Law Term there will be a short Service in St. Michan's Church, Dublin, on Wednesday, at 10 a.m. It will be conducted by Canon E. J. Young, Rector of the parish, and the Rev. J. C. Breakey, minister of the Abbey Church. For centuries St. Michan's Church has been the parish church of the Four Courts. There were special seats assigned to the judges in former days, and the names of many famous legal men are recorded in the Registers. The Sheare brothers and others, who were tried and sentenced in Green street, are buried in the vaults in the graveyard.

DUBLIN CHILD KILLED

STRUCK BY MOTOR CYCLE

Hubert Cole, aged six, 24 Auburn avenue, Donnybrook, was brought into Baggot street Hospital, Dublin, on Sunday, at about 7 p.m., suffering from severe injuries. He was unconscious, and died twenty minutes later.

Dr. J. P. Brennan, Coroner for South County Dublin, held an inquiry yesterday afternoon at the hospital.

Mr. Cole, father of the child, said that he was walking along the footpath of the Stillorgan road when a motor cycle and sidecar mounted the footpath and struck his son, whom he was holding by the hand. They were all knocked down.

John McCabe said he passed the Coles on the footpath. Because it was on the crown of the road and a bit on its wrong side, he noticed a motor cycle, with combination, coming towards him when it was a hundred yards away. It passed him, and a moment later he heard a crash, and saw the woman who had been in the sidecar lying in the road bleeding. The motor cycle was up on the footpath, and the two children under it.

The witness stated, in reply to Inspector Brennan, C.G., that a 'bus had passed, going to Bray, on the wrong side of the motor cycle, and the cycle was nearer the left or wrong side of the road, about eight or nine feet from the edge.

Replying to Mr. Felix Sheehy (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning, solicitors, for the driver of the motor cycle), the witness said that he did not see the motor cycle pass out a motor car going in the same direction. A 'bus had to pass on the wrong side to avoid the motor cycle. There was no room for the 'bus on its proper side.

Guard E 62 gave evidence showing that the wall on the other side of the footpath had been scraped for a considerable distance, probably by the handle of the cycle. He described damage done to the machine, and said that the bolt which should hold the bar between the cycle and the sidecar was missing. He thought that the bolt had become loose and had caused the cycle to wobble.

Inspector Brennan asked for an adjournment, as proceedings in another court might follow.

The Coroner said that as the driver of the cycle had not been charged with either murder or manslaughter, the jury was entitled to express its verdict as to the cause of death.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence, and that the injuries were the result of the cycle accident. Sympathy was expressed with the relatives.

The Irish Times.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1934.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

It was announced yesterday that the United Ireland Party will introduce in the Dail a bill for the relief of farmers who are unable to pay their rates and annuities. The party unanimously approved of the action of the Executive on the occasion of General O'Duffy's resignation.—(Page

Mr. Hugh O'Neill, of Castleblayney, County Monaghan, a well-known cattle dealer, who had failed to appear on bail at Newry Sessions in connection with a charge of smuggling, was taken from his home by four men on Saturday night and conveyed in a motor car to Armagh, where he was placed under arrest. Customs police afterwards took him to the County Jail, Belfast.—(Page

A destructive fire occurred at Mount Loftus, Goresbridge, the residence of Major Loftus, yesterday.—(Page 7.)

Civic Guards were busy all day yesterday removing obstructions from the roads to and from Mullingar. During Sunday night and Monday morning the town was virtually isolated by means of barricades of felled trees, stones and the like, and the telegraph and telephone wires were cut. Trains and road traffic were delayed. The object of the obstructions was to "hold up" loads of seized cattle when approaching the town for sale.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Justice Clauson, in the Chancery Division, London, yesterday, decided that under the will of Miss Polly Mary Fitzpatrick, who was found dead at her home in Brighton in July, 1932, two sums of money at the bank were given to Mr. de Valera, President of the Irish Free State Executive Council.—(Page 8.)

ABROAD.

Talks of importance to Yugoslavia and Italy will take place when King Alexander visits Paris. He is to arrive in France to-day.—(Page 7.)

Bruno Hauptmann, at New Jersey yesterday, was indicted for the murder of Colonel Charles Lindbergh's baby in 1932.—(Page 7.)

The Spanish situation was worse yesterday. The rebels are still holding out, and the number of dead is estimated at 500.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Nottingham yesterday Watertight won the Nottingham Handicap.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets opened the new account with a steady tone, but there was no strong feature.—(Page 3.)

Gold rose to a high record price of 142s. 6d. per oz., and £320,000 was sold in the market. Silver was strong at 22⅞d. per oz.—(Page 3.)

Dublin Market was quiet. Guinness units improved to 127s. 10½d.—(Page 3.)

"United Ireland"

A meeting of all members of the Free State Senate and Dáil who give allegiance to the United Ireland Party was held in Dublin yesterday. Its primary object was to consider proposals by Mr. Patrick Belton, T.D., for a possible healing of the breach that has been caused in the party by the resignation of General O'Duffy from its presidency; but, as Mr. Belton was prevented through illness from attendance, his proposals—which remain a close secret—were not raised. The meeting, however, dealt at some length with the situation that has been created by General O'Duffy's action, and passed a unanimous vote of confidence in the Executive. In other words, the United Ireland Party members of the Oireachtas have approved of their leaders' acceptance of General O'Duffy's resignation. Unless Mr. Belton, therefore, has some exceptionally brilliant plan, it seems to be most unlikely that any concerted effort will be made to induce General O'Duffy to rejoin the United Ireland Party. Certainly his period of leadership has come to an end, and we are sure that he is sufficiently patriotic to recognise that any attempt to alter this fact would be fatal to the party's interests. General O'Duffy has deserved well of his country. As a military leader during the civil war, and afterwards as the creator and organiser of the unarmed Civic Guards, he did work which probably could have been done by no other Irishman. He is a man of action, however, rather than a politician. He lacks the deliberative quality of mind which is essential to political leadership; and, while everybody must admit that his organisation of the Blue Shirt movement was remarkably successful, there is little doubt that he made many political blunders, and that his continued presence at the head of the United Ireland Party would have led sooner or later to a serious cleavage in its ranks.

The position at the moment is highly unsatisfactory. Since the merger between the old Cumann na nGaedheal Party, the Centre Party and the Blue Shirts, we always have understood that the League of Youth, which is the direct descendant of the Army Comrades' Association, was an integral element in the new party, by which it was controlled, and that it continued to exist solely by virtue of its essential association with the two other branches of Fine Gael. General O'Duffy apparently takes a different view. He insists that his resignation from the leadership of the United Ireland Party did not affect his position as Director-General of the Blue Shirt movement; and, although ex-Commandant Cronin has been appointed to succeed him as head of the League of Youth, he refuses to recognise the validity of this appointment. In these circumstances, the Blue Shirt movement seems to be divided sharply. Each leader claims to command a majority in the country. General O'Duffy, who enjoys much personal popularity among the young people, declares that he is the only legitimate Director-General of the organisation, and the citizens of the Saorstát are faced with the rather unedifying spectacle of two leaders, both of whom are patriotic men, issuing statements and counter-statements until the general public has become thoroughly sick of the whole business. The Blue Shirt organisation had great possibilities for good. We never believed in its rather muddled programme for a so-called "corporative State," and its quasi-Fascist pretensions never were feasible. Nevertheless, as a rallying point for the decent youth of the Free State, the League of Youth did offer something that hitherto had been lacking in our country, and its rapid success encouraged the hope that it eventually might develop into a national movement of real value.

We are not concerned very deeply with past events; but we are concerned with the future. It is essential to the welfare of the Irish Free State that there shall be a strong and vigorous Opposition in Dáil Eireann which, when the time comes, will be in a position to contest a general election and to form an alternative Government to the Fianna Fáil Administration. At present the United Ireland Party seems to have no well-defined policy, whereas President de Valera's Government, for all its wrong-headedness and folly, has a very positive policy, which it is pursuing to the bitter end. Unless Fine Gael can produce a well-considered programme, with which to oppose the Government at the next election, we fear that its hopes of success at the polls will be slight. Destructive criticism is not enough. President de Valera's policy is calamitous; but for the time being it holds the field. There never was a more urgent need for a leader in Ireland than there is to-day. If some man would come forward with the moral courage to declare urbi et orbi, as Arthur Griffith declared thirteen years ago, that he was prepared to work the Free State as a Dominion, without equivocation or quibbling of any kind, we believe that he would command the support of many thousands of responsible men and women in the Saorstát who are weary of President de Valera's republican rainbow-chasing. General O'Duffy made a fatal mistake when he tried to out-bid the President as a doctrinaire republican. He made no impression on Fianna Fáil's following, and merely alienated the sympathies of large numbers who had supported Mr. Cosgrave. With the example of General Smuts and General Hertzog before him, no Irish patriot need be ashamed to take a definite stand against separatism. No half-hearted policy will succeed in the Free State, and, unless the cause of political and economic sanity is to go by default, the time has come when a constructive programme must be produced.

The Corrupted Countryside

There is something almost desperate about the efforts of enlightened Englishmen to save their country's remnants of beauty. The cross-Channel Press displays regular appeals for money to acquire some celebrated beauty-spot, in order that it may not fall into the hands of the builder, and diatribes against new acts of vandalism are lamentably frequent. Such outcry, it is true, might have had more valuable results if it had been raised before the mischief had begun—at the end of the War, for example, when the jerry-builder's heyday dawned and the motor car was still a luxury; but it is better late than never. England's natural beauty has suffered a sad decline within the last fifteen years. Straggling lines of villas stretch from every town into the once unspoiled country; petrol pumps glare among the loveliest valleys, while bungalows perched upon the hill-tops make the prospect vile. What has thus been done cannot be undone. England must leave these excrescences to pollute her countryside until they drop to bits or the leases expire. Little by little, however, the nation is rising in protest against such wanton destruction of its most precious heritage, and it is probable that public opinion, armed with legislative weapons in the shape of last year's Planning Act, will put a stop to any extension of the damage. We in Ireland would do well to profit by what we can see of the spoliation of England; for as surely as vandalism and ignorance have destroyed the beauty of England, so, unless they are prevented, they will destroy the beauty of Ireland. Our task is easier, because the damage has not spread so far on this side; but the fact remains that Ireland is a far less beautiful country to-day than it was even a few years ago—and in a few years it may be positively ugly. The vicinity of Dublin is becoming an eyesore instead of the lovely expanse that it was not so long ago; soon the progress of ribbon-building and bungalow-dumping will have reduced it to the level of a low London suburb. Let us put a stop to this evil of wanton building before it is too late. The Free State Government's new planning measure—what, by the way, has become of it?—offers all facilities to the local authorities who have courage to make use of them, and, if the local authorities play their part with discretion and firmness, the evil will be checked before it will have had opportunity to do its worst. We have, indeed, an unpleasant feeling that the authorities will be slow to employ their powers, through fear of unpopularity; but that fear ought not to deter any alderman or councillor who loves his country. We are anxious enough, in all conscience, to cut loose from England. Why are we so ready to retain and imitate the worst features of her civilisation?

Winter Sports

It is at this time of year, when winter time arrives, that the public unites in a general statement which deals with the increasing length of the evenings. Although this is purely in the nature of a prelude to further and more intimate conversation, it is a sign that the winter bathing season has come round again. Henceforward people who have spent the summer bathing unsung will receive their full meed of praise; for, oblivious of sleet and snow, they will continue to bathe through the unfeeling months of October, November, December and on until March, when they will join again the nondescript throng of fair weather bathers. The physical sensation of diving into a grey January sea cannot be enjoyable; but it is the mental exhilaration of doing something which no one else will dare to do that keeps the winter bather firm in his purpose, and on the bleakest days there is always some friend who will express his admiration for the bravery and virility of a man who will plunge without a thought into a frozen pool. If this were not enough, the bait of a possible photograph in the illustrated papers is usually sufficient to send the more unenthusiastic bather headlong into a convenient stretch of water; the publicity compensates for the discomfort. A less hardy type of winter sportsman is the tennis player. Now that hard courts are to be found in such abundance, it is possible to play all the year round, and thereby acquire some reputation for courage in the face of exposure, although the bather tends to scorn the claims of the tennis player in that the tennis enthusiast is compelled by the example of tradition to retain a certain amount of clothing. The non-participant tends to wonder how much bathing would be enjoyed during the winter if there were no friends to admire, and no newspapers to publish photographs.

"Hikers"

"Many a lad," states a member of the Royal Academy, "has skinny legs that would not be noticed if his upper half wore a dazzling pullover." He has been lamenting, in a recent letter to The Times, the mournful hues generally adopted by "hikers," and is advocating a brighter colour scheme for those who feel compelled to wear special clothes for walking. According to him, almost every time he takes the air his eye is disturbed by the vision of these people in their "hideous uniform." Potato-colour and khaki seem to be the shades most in favour; but Mr. Russell Flint (who writes the letter) refuses to believe that the pursuit is such a serious business that only the most gloomy colours are considered to be appropriate to it. Why, he asks, should not the manufacturers and outfitters make an effort to produce garments which, besides being cheap and durable, should present a lively splash of colour to the eye, and serve, indeed, to add to the beauties of the countryside instead of detracting from them? For most of us, it is true, his question is purely academic. Unversed in the real art of walking, we set out over the mountains in our bourgeois tweed coats and flannel trousers, only to be shamed by the sight of bulging rucksacks, zipp-fastened shirts, bare knees and the general atmosphere of khaki to which Mr. Russell Flint so strongly objects. Evidently the question is one for the professional "hiker" to answer, and perhaps he has reasons of his own why an unobtrusive garb should be adopted instead of the gayer colour-schemes suggested by Mr. Russell Flint. The wonder to most of us is not that he wears a drab or a lively uniform, but that he finds it necessary to wear a uniform at all.

"THE SHADOW OF WAR"

LORD DERWENT'S HOPE OF THE LEAGUE

Lord Derwent, addressing the annual meeting of the Yorkshire Women's Liberal Association at Scarborough yesterday, said that if the League of Nations collapsed completely all hope of sane and intelligent co-operation between the nations of the world would disappear. The shadow of war loomed across the world once more, and people were beginning to talk quite calmly about the next war. Women must see that this latest and most preposterous fantasy of men was neutralised.

OLD DUBLIN SOCIETY

SOME EARLY PRINTERS

Councillor Thomas Kelly, T.D., presided at a meeting of Old Dublin Society, held last night in the City Assembly House (Lord Mayor's Court), South William street. There was a good attendance.

Mr. T. S. Cuffe read a paper entitled "Some Old Dublin Booksellers, Publishers and Printers." Dealing with the early printers, he said that one of the first books printed in Dublin was by Powell in 1566, entitled "A Briefe Declaration of Certain Principal Articles of Religion." Then he mentioned Archbishop Usher's fine collection of books.

In 1618 by Royal Patent three of the Company of the Society of Stationers were empowered to print in the city.

Though Molyneux and Swift wrote in the interests of their own caste they evolved a spirit that was responsible for the formation of the Volunteers. Later offspring of Dublin—Burke, Sheridan and Grattan—were thus helped to encounter on more favourable terms the enemies of civil and religious freedom.

It was John Harding, who dwelt in Molesworth Court, on the western side of Fishamble street, who printed Swift's letters, which appeared under the signature of "M. B. Drapier."

Mr. George Faulkner, the printer, was born in 1699, and the Dublin Journal was printed in 1724, and the first number of the Freeman's Journal was published on September 10, 1763.

Mr. Cuffe showed a few splendid specimens of books printed and bound in Dublin about two hundred years ago.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the lecturer.

THE LAUNCH OF THE QUEEN MARY

WASH THREE FEET SIX INCHES HIGH

Renfrew Town Council considers that it was justified in closing the water "Neb" and the Blythwood estate on the launch of the Cunarder Queen Mary.

Councillor Brodie, who was appointed by the Council to take an official record of the height of the waves produced by the launch, stated at the Council meeting last night that the height of the wash was 3ft. 6ins. The water swept the entire length of the pathway to a depth of one foot. The estate was flooded 100 yards from the water "Neb," and the Ferry Green was also flooded.

Councillor Brodie's report stated that the Council's action was fully warranted for public safety, and there was no doubt that the pathway would be closed on a similar occasion.

NEXT GENERAL ELECTION

MR. ORMSBY GORE'S VIEWS

Mr. Ormsby Gore, First Commissioner of Works, speaking last night at the Scottish Conservative Club, Edinburgh, said that he could not see that the next general election could possibly come until after the Budget of 1936—some time between May and October of that year. There was no sign of the Government ceasing to have the confidence of the House of Commons.

The most significant fact at the Labour Conference at Southport was the election of Sir Stafford Cripps to the Labour Party Executive. We all know, he said, that Sir Stafford wants to have a row with the Second Chamber. He wants to have a row with Buckingham Palace. He wants, in effect, to have straight Socialism. He is a perfectly sincere, determined, intellectual Socialist, who is out for the full policy of Socialism, because he believes that he—a man of great ability, limitless ambition and limitless conceit—can manage to run all of us much better than we can run ourselves. He believes that if he were the head of the State everything would be much better for everybody.

Bad as was the experience of the country under the last Labour Government, much worse will be the experience of the country under the next Labour Government, if one ever gets in.

POLITICIANS MAKE WARS

LORD HAREWOOD'S VIEW

Earl Harewood, speaking at the twentieth anniversary commemoration dinner of the Leeds "Pals"—15th West Yorkshire Regiment—at Leeds last night, expressed the hope that the spirit of comradeship which was brought out in the War would continue to manifest itself in the helping of their comrades who were less fortunate than themselves. In a company of over 500 ex-Service men there were present 281 of the original members of the battalion.

Lord Harewood said that most of those present would agree with him that organisations of soldiers, and especially ex-Service men, did nothing to promote or bring about a war. When politicians said the contrary, and that the best way to prevent war was to cut down the army, he replied that it was the politicians who made wars, and it was the soldiers who had to save the politicians by ending wars.

WEATHER FORECAST

General Inference.—An anti-cyclone centred off our south-west coasts covers our southern districts. A secondary depression off the Hebrides will move east, and then north-east, followed by a wedge of high pressure. Weather will be settled fair in the south, and a mainly fair interval is expected in the north.

North-West Ireland.—Fresh or strong west wind, moderating temporarily, backing later; bright intervals; local showers; average temperature.

North-East, South-East and South-west Ireland.—Moderate or fresh west wind, backing south-west; mainly fair; average temperature.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Fresh west wind, moderating; mainly fair; sea moderate.

COURTS AND U.S. LEGISLATION

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Monday.

For the first time, President Roosevelt's legislation is having to run the gauntlet of the High Court. The United States Supreme Court has agreed to pass judgment on the constitutionality of vital "New Deal" legislation—namely, the section of the Recovery Act applying to oil production and the suspension of gold payments.

The court refused to pass judgment upon the validity of the Act prohibiting gold hoarding.

The cases challenging the validity of the N.R.A. with regard to oil were brought by the Panama Refining Company and the Amazon Petroleum Corporation in East Texas, where the Federal District Court ruled against the Government, but the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals took an opposite view.

Mr. N. C. Norman, of New York, attacked the gold payment suspension legislation, contending that a person owning a gold bond was entitled to payment in gold, or in currency of an equivalent value to gold

LONDON LETTER

EVENTS IN SPAIN

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The events of the week-end in Spain have been watched with intense interest in political circles here, as it is recognised that they might have led to the complete overthrow of the Republican régime by the establishment of a Communist system somewhat similar to that of Russia. It is related, however, that the Government is now in command of the situation, and that the rebels have little chance of success anywhere. The opinion in diplomatic quarters is that the Spanish Republic will not now be affected, and that the Government will remain Republican in character. Separatism is the great influence working against the Government, and if the separatists could have their way Spain would be divided into a number of States, leaving the Central Government with little authority. The Communists have taken full advantage of this factor, and have done all they could to fan the trouble until it burst into the flame of revolution. It seems that Communism has been defeated, but it is declared by observers here that the struggle for separatism is likely to continue.

The Government's Plans

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald has settled down to work, and intends during the next few days to consult his colleagues on several of the problems which have arisen during his absence. It may be found that before long some interesting decisions have been reached, and that there may be an increase in road-making and improvement, land reclamation, afforestation and electricity extension. It appears that a regular and definite programme of work on a large scale is to be promoted, with the intention of providing employment and adding at the same time to the national assets. Once a scheme has been adopted no time will be lost in putting it into operation, so that it may prove of value during the coming winter.

State Documents

Mr. George Lansbury is determined not to return to the Cabinet Secretariat any of the Cabinet documents in his possession, nor will he call a meeting of ex-Ministers to decide upon a course of action. It is understood that the question of the publication of Cabinet papers, which has brought about a demand for their return, first developed in 1919, when Lord Ypres's book, with its bitter attack on Mr. Asquith and Mr. Winston Churchill, appeared. Mr. Churchill, then War Secretary, said that he could not answer Lord Ypres without quotation from secret documents in his keeping. Mr. Churchill, after much discussion, was given leave to publish what he deemed necessary, and this decision still remains effective.

India

The Joint Select Committee considering the India White Paper resumed its labours to-day after a long recess. The Committee has been taking evidence and preparing recommendations during the past eighteen months. To-day their work was given to a final draft of the report, but as this is a document of great length and much detail it will occupy some time, and it is unlikely that it will be completed before the end of the month. Events are likely to move then, and once the report has been made public there will be a demand for a full debate in the House of Commons. A bill will be prepared whose various clauses and appendices have been mapped out, and into the framework will be fitted the plans of the Select Committee accepted by the Cabinet. The bill will be a big one—an estimate puts it at between 150 and 200 clauses. It is hoped to introduce it before Christmas.

A Campaign Against Socialism

The Conservative Party in London, warned by the result of the late County Council election, is preparing a big campaign with a view to saving London from the Socialists. Lord Hailsham and Sir Kingsley Wood are to direct the campaign, while Mrs. Stanley Baldwin and Mrs. Neville Chamberlain will take part also. The Conservatives have a very good platform for the election, but the apathy of the municipal voter is extraordinary, and it is difficult to arouse him to the necessity of going to the polling station. If he fails to vote, several of the London boroughs will be left in Socialist hands.

Mr. Lloyd George

The report that Mr. Lloyd George was preparing a rather spectacular return to active politics is somewhat exaggerated, but it points to the fact that he has no intention of giving up politics and confining his activities to agriculture. It is said that the rumour arose out of a house party at Criccieth, when Mr. Lloyd George entertained several leading Welsh Liberals, and there was a discussion as to the advisability of Welsh Liberalism adopting a more radical policy than that outlined in the official programme. Mr. Lloyd George is interested in the suggestion, and is anxious to see Wales become more radical, but whether he would head such a movement is for the moment uncertain. It is interesting, however, to note that there are likely to be proportionately more Liberal candidates in Wales than anywhere else in the electorate.

The Air Race

The date of starting for the Australia air race draws near, but there is still uncertainty in official quarters as to the exact number of starters on October 20th. There were sixty-four original entrants, and of these a few have withdrawn. Only three or four of the eighteen airmen in the United States contingent are known to have sailed with their aeroplanes, and any possible competitor who has not started will be too late, unless he intends to fly the Atlantic. In these circumstances, it appears that the team from the United States will number less than half a dozen. Several of the Continental competitors are also likely to be non-starters, and it is thought that the number setting out will be between twenty and thirty, the contingent from Britain being by far the strongest.

New Government Buildings

A decision respecting the erection of a huge new block of Government buildings on the Whitehall Gardens site will be made shortly. This was one of Mr. George Lansbury's projects when he was First Commissioner of Works, but it was dropped for financial reasons. The necessity for some such scheme is manifest, as the present accommodation of many subordinate Government departments is quite inadequate, besides being inconveniently situated. Some of them are housed in separate buildings considerable distances apart. Originally the Air Ministry had visions of offices on the site, but that scheme was much too ambitious to commend itself to the Treasury. The great expansion of the Royal Air Force will now give the Ministry priority of claim to the tenancy of a great part of the new buildings.

WORKSHOPS FOR THE BLIND

It is understood that the Free State Government is favourably disposed towards a scheme, which was proposed by the Irish National League of the Blind, for the provision by the State or by local authorities of workshops for the industrious blind. The Minister for Local Government has had the matter under consideration. In acknowledging a resolution of the Dublin Trades Union Council calling for action, the Minister yesterday said that Mr. O. Traynor, T.D., had approached him on this subject.

EXTENSION OF THE SPANISH REVOLT

DEATH ROLL NOW PLACED AT FIVE HUNDRED

NUNS KILLED : PRIEST BURNED TO DEATH

TELEPHONE GIRLS' FOUR DAYS' CONTINUOUS DUTY

THE situation in Spain is considered to be growing more delicate.

The Anarchist Syndicalists belonging to the National Labour Federation are beginning to support the strike movement which the Socialists set on foot.

Several important centres in Andalusia, where the Syndicalists wield great influence, are now affected, and the Government is thus faced with yet another seat of trouble. The troops will be called upon to face disturbances on all sides.

The revolutionaries are employing methods of guerilla warfare, and, by continually sniping, give the police no rest.

Madrid is threatened with the spectre of a famine. The provisioning of the city is becoming more and more difficult, and trains bringing in foodstuffs are arriving at only distant intervals.

Fortunately the market porters are not on strike, and are ready to undertake long tramps through the city with huge bundles on their backs. Up to the present lorries have been bringing fruit and vegetables into the capital from the country by road, but yesterday very few of these arrived, for the journey has become too perilous, with rebel sharpshooters firing at different points on the roads.

The rebels at Barruelo, in the province of Valencia, blew up the living quarters of the Civil Guard, killing all their families. They also blew up the Mining Orphans' Home, killing seven nuns and some children.

A priest is reported to have been burned to death.

FIFTY-TWO SOLDIERS BLOWN UP

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Monday.

The Spanish revolt, it is now estimated, has resulted in a death roll in the neighbourhood of 500, while some 2,000 have been wounded.

The revolt is still going on in Asturias, the north-western province. The strikers are stated to be well provided with arms and, possibly, with artillery.

Not only has telephonic communication been cut, but the roads have been blown up, and this, in addition to the fact that the country is very hilly and rough, makes the progress of the troops extremely slow and difficult.

The Military Tribunals will, it is expected, begin their operations to-morrow, but not before, and it is feared that a number of summary executions will take place.

It is not expected that any of the leaders will be condemned to death, since they would immediately become martyrs in the eyes of the people. The lesser lights in the movements are not expected to be so lucky, however.

Inquiries of the British Embassy reveal that no British subjects have asked for protection. Negotiations are proceeding with the General Director of the Surete with a view to facilitating the exit from Spain of British people on holiday in the country.

MADRID FAMINE FEARS

EXPECTED RAID ON SHOPS

The situation in Madrid is distinctly worse. There are rumours of certain trouble for to-night. It is expected that a concerted attack will be made on the shopping centres owing to great shortage of food.

Inhabitants are virtually without bread and potatoes, and many are having to use powdered milk. There is an absolute scarcity of flour. Queues have been forming up since about three o'clock this morning, and some of them number at least 1,000.

Two thousand soldiers have arrived at the port of Tarragona, ready for any emergency in the Catalan region, and 2,500 soldiers, the majority of whom are Legionaries from Morocco, have been landed at Gijon to proceed to the mining centre, although reports stating that the white flag is flying in several districts of this region would seem to make the presence of soldiers unnecessary.

It is reported that among the loyal troops in Tarragona nine have been killed and thirty-seven wounded so far.

In the mining centre of La Carolina the rebels have made themselves fast, and further troops will be needed to dislodge them. There have been fourteen wounded in recent clashes.

In Portugalete there has been a collision between the police and strikers. One person was killed and twelve injured.

OFFICE ARSENALS

Veritable arsenals have been discovered in most of the official buildings in the Catalonian towns and elsewhere. In a search of the Catalan Home Office 1,000 rifles, eight boxes full of bombs, 125 boxes of dynamite and innumerable small arms were discovered.

Darkness fell in Madrid to-night on a city tense with anxiety. It is generally believed that to-night the Socialists will make their last throw, and will make a final attempt to bring off a successful revolution.

Stray shots from snipers punctuate the stillness of the night, and are often answered by the rattle of machine-guns. The heavy tread of infantry patrols and the jingling of cavalry squadrons can be heard in the almost deserted streets.

Serious fighting took place in Madrid this evening, the chief centres being the Puerto del Sol, where snipers on the roofs fired at the police; the two main streets, the Gran Via and the Alcala; and in front of the General Post Office.

RAIN OF BULLETS

Pedestrians rushed to the Post Office for shelter, with their hands high above their heads. All the windows of the Post Office facing the street have been shattered by bullets.

"The rattling of machine guns and the rain of bullets in Madrid to-day was worse than anything I ever experienced in Morocco," a Spaniard who fought in the Moroccan campaign, told Reuter's representative this evening.

Seven persons were killed in the firing here this morning, including two waiters in a fashionable café which opened recently.

The Syndicalist Revolutionary Committee and Anarchists' Liaison Committee have been arrested in Madrid.

BLOWN UP WITH DYNAMITE

Fifty-two soldiers were killed to-day when a lorry packed with shock troops was blown up by dynamite by the rebels in the province of Asturias.

The Cabinet has been in session for some hours, but its deliberations are expected to end shortly. Among the matters on which it is expected to decide are:

(1) The establishment and procedure of court-martials to try the captured rebels; and

(2) The calling up of the First and Second Army Reserve, which will affect men up to the age of 39 years. No decision to call up the Reserves has yet been taken.

Taxi-drivers who do not return to work at 12 noon to-morrow, which is licence renewal day, will be refused new licences.

Railway communication has now been re-established with Catalonia, and all Spain now has railway communication except Asturias. Expresses will start leaving Madrid for Barcelona as usual to-morrow.

CHURCH SET ON FIRE

It is understood that the Anarchists and Socialists in Seville have joined hands and are on strike. The historic Trinidad Church in Seville is ablaze, set alight by the strikers.

An important discovery, which may lead to the disorganisation of the Socialist Youth Movement, was made to-day by the authorities.

The Revolutionary Committee of this group has been in session four days in a building within a stone's-throw of the British Embassy. The plotters were lodging in the house of a painter named Tintanello, who has just organised an exhibition of his paintings in New York.

The Minister of War has stated that each day at least fifty men have been killed in the Asturias.

The telephone girls in Madrid have now been inside the exchange for four days. Under no circumstances are they allowed to leave, and they sleep there. They have been keeping one line running to Paris and one to London.

REBELS' HUTS SHELLED

MEN INSIDE BLAZING BUILDING

In Barcelona General Batet gave orders to the fleet to fire their guns on four large wooden huts on the wharf which were known to have hundreds of revolutionaries inside.

A report has just been received here that two of the four huts are on fire, with the rebels trapped in them. Instructions were asked as to how the other two huts were to be dealt with, and it was ordered that the men should be allowed to leave the huts and be then arrested.

The Fascist leader, Señor Primo de Rivera, has been received by the Premier, Señor Lerroux, and has expressed his concern over the situation. He added that he only awaited a request from the Government to place his men, who are stated to number 60,000, at the disposal of the authorities.

It is now estimated that the number of arrests made in Barcelona on Saturday and Sunday exceeded 2,000. They included the well-known painter, Pedro Pruna.

The rumour that several of the rebels have already been shot is stated to be unfounded.

A Cortes Deputy, Señor Luiz Bello, was arrested in his hotel to-day. Lieutenant-Colonel Ricart and Captain Gil have surrendered and have been taken to the fortress of Montjuich, where the Catalan guards, who defended the Palace, have already been incarcerated.

AMBUSHED

A cruiser, with a company of Marines on board, has had to be sent to the coastal town of Villanueva Geitru, which is cut off from all communications by road and rail.

A company of Carabinieros who tried to reach the town by road was ambushed. A sergeant and four rebels were killed.

At Tarrasa, Anarchists seized some arms abandoned by Catalan guards, stormed the prison and freed seven fellow-Anarchists who had recently been arrested.

Civil guards thereupon tackled the Anarchists and killed three of them.

Near the Cortes building in Madrid shots were fired on a patrol of guards, and a guard was killed by a sniper close to the house of Señor Lerroux.

A battalion of infantry has been despatched to the village of Pola de Gordon, near Valladolid, as well as a squadron of cavalry. It is believed that the situation is very serious there.

BARRACKS STORMED

At Tauste, near Saragossa, crowds paraded the village street, proclaiming a Communist régime.

They then stormed the barracks of the

OBSTRUCTING CATTLE SALES

MULLINGAR TOWN ISOLATED

ROADS BLOCKED AND TRAINS DELAYED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

MULLINGAR, Monday.

THE people of Mullingar awoke this morning to find that the town had been virtually isolated during the night or in the early hours of morning. All the main roads leading to and from the town had been blocked by means of felled trees.

'Buses and other vehicles bound for Mullingar had to approach it by a circuitous route, which involved a journey of several additional miles.

Telephone and telegraph wires in many districts had been cut, and trains entering and leaving the town were delayed.

Early this morning Civic Guards in lorries went out to remove the obstructions, and were busy during the greater part of the day. They cleared an immense obstruction from the road between Mullingar and Delvin, went further on to see whether the road was clear, and on returning found that the portion they had cleared was once more blocked by trees and stones.

It was reported that a lorry-load of seized cattle had been "held up" on the main road by means of barricades of timber.

At the moment of writing there is no definite information in regard to the fixed times or places of sales. It is understood, however, that Sheriffs' sales in future will take place at the military barracks, and not, as heretofore, at the Courthouse. The sales held at the Courthouse in August last were marked by wild demonstrations and baton charges.

Reports from surrounding districts indicate that the Civic Guards were out during the greater part of Sunday night searching for obstacles, and removing them from the public roads.

ATHLONE ALSO AFFECTED

Our Athlone Correspondent telegraphs: The roads leading from Athlone were blocked at various points this morning, and traffic was seriously impeded. The 'bus left Athlone for Mullingar, but it was unable to get through because of trees placed across the road. The roads in the vicinity of Ballinahown were blocked with fallen trees. Owing to the cutting of telegraph wires the morning mail train from Dublin to Galway did not reach Athlone until after noon, three hours after scheduled time. The up trains were also delayed for some hours at Athlone.

JAPAN'S NAVAL POLICY

"WILL WELCOME DISARMAMENT"

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

A declaration that Japan will welcome disarmament, although she will insist upon naval equality with the United States and Britain, was made by Admiral Yamamoto, the Japanese delegate to the forthcoming London Naval Conference conversations, in an interview here to-day.

Admiral Yamamoto will sail for London on Wednesday.

"Japan is not in favour of disarmament based on a ratio system," he said, "and she is not in favour of continuing treaties based on that system. Such being Japan's attitude, there are many people, both in Japan and abroad, who are of the opinion that Japan will demand a revision of the present ratio of 5:5:3 to 5:5:5, which would amount in our case to a considerable increase rather than a decrease of naval tonnage.

"Quite the contrary is the case. We will gladly take the initiative of working towards a substantial decrease of naval armaments, because in so doing a definite contribution can be made towards stabilising international relations."

SERIES OF GERMAN ACCIDENTS

ELEVEN PERSONS KILLED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

Eleven people are dead and 37 injured as the result of a series of accidents in various parts of Germany during the past 24 hours.

A factory under construction in Standhal, near Berlin, collapsed, killing six men and injuring 15.

In Weimar a workman went down a well and did not return. His wife sent a foreman after him. He also did not return. Two more rescuers failed to come back. All four men were found at the bottom of the well, two dead and two unconscious.

A motor car with six passengers dashed over a ravine near Chemnitz. Three of the occupants were killed and two seriously injured.

The driver of an omnibus containing 30 footballers lost control of the 'bus near Erfurt. The 'bus somersaulted down a bank and 20 men were injured.

THIRTY-HOUR WEEK AND NO CUTS

U.S. LABOUR'S POLICY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Monday.

Amid thunderous applause the American Federation of Labour Convention to-day went the whole hog in favour of a five-day week of thirty hours, with no reduction of wages, as the only constructive remedy for the relief of unemployment.

LORD CUSHENDUN

The condition of Lord Cushendun, who is seriously ill at his country seat, Glenmona, Cushendun, County Antrim, was stated last night to be unchanged. He had not emerged from the coma into which he lapsed on Sunday.

THE KING'S BOUNTY

Application to the Governor-General of the Free State (Mr. Donal Buckley) for payment of the King's bounty in respect of triplets born at the Rotunda Hospital, Dublin, will probably be made during the next few days.

On inquiry at the hospital yesterday it was learned that no application had yet been made, but the usual course adopted was to send the request for payment of the bounty to the Governor-General, and this would be done in respect of the three babies now in the hospital with their mother. The infants weighed 6lb. 14oz., 6lb. 4oz., and 5lb. 9oz. at birth.

IMPORTANT PARIS TALKS

YUGOSLAV KING'S VISIT

UNDERSTANDING WITH ITALY

IN COMMON INTEREST OF TWO COUNTRIES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

CEREMONIAL will fill nine-tenths of the programme of the State visit of King Alexander of Yugoslavia to Paris, but the other tenth, reserved for diplomatic conversations, outweighs all the rest in importance.

The primary object of the talks which King Alexander will have with M. Barthou will be to cement Franco-Yugoslav friendship and alliance.

In relation to these talks the reports that Belgrade has recently drawn closer to Berlin are scouted in well-informed French quarters. M. Barthou's main concern, however, will be to bridge the gap separating Yugoslavia and Italy.

It is emphasised here with undisguised satisfaction that Signor Mussolini at Milan, speaking deliberately on the eve of the Royal visit to Paris, held out a definite olive branch to Belgrade.

M. Barthou, while carefully avoiding any semblance of interference in the affairs of Yugoslavia and Italy, will doubtless tender "friendly advice" to King Alexander.

The French Government is sanguine that King Alexander will appreciate that an understanding with Italy is in the common interest of both countries. Both are equally interested in averting a drang nach osten, which would at once menace Italy's economic, and even territorial, independence and endanger Yugoslavia's national unity.

This aspect of King Alexander's visit is of paramount importance to France, since its results will be to the touchstone of the success or failure of the conversations which M. Barthou will have with Signor Mussolini in Rome in November.

M. Barthou and M. Pietri, Minister of Marine, proceeded to Marseilles to-night officially to receive King Alexander when he arrives to-morrow.

FIRE DESTROYS MANSION

MAJOR LOFTUS'S LOSS

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

GORESBRIDGE, Monday.

Almost the entire mansion owned by Major J. E. B. Loftus, Mount Loftus, Goresbridge, was destroyed by a fire which broke out about 2.45 this evening. The dwelling, which was built on the site of the old Mount Loftus House, was the most conspicuous in County Kilkenny, and was rebuilt by its present owner about 1900 at a cost, it is stated, of about £9,000.

Smoke was first noticed by a maid, Miss Flood, who gave the alarm. All the employés of the neighbouring farms and people of the district rushed to the scene. Civic Guards from Goresbridge, under Sergeant Cummings, also attended. All worked energetically to combat the flames.

Silver and plate and a big collection of valuables and heirlooms of the Loftus family were destroyed. Some wedding presents belonging to Mrs. Grattan Bellew, the Major's eldest daughter, which were stored in a sealed press, were saved.

Major and Mrs. Loftus were away. Only Miss Patricia Loftus was at home.

A westerly wind and scarcity of water helped to the spread of the flames.

BODY FOUND IN SHANNON

IRISH-SPEAKING SOLDIER

The body of Private Patrick O'Donnell, 1st Irish-Speaking Battalion, Free State Army, was found in the Shannon yesterday. O'Donnell had been stationed in Athlone for the past eighteen months. Except for the cap, the body was fully clothed, and appeared to have been in the water for several days. In one pocket was found £4 3s. 4d. The deceased man, who was 23 years of age, was a native of Carna, Co. Galway.

STILL IN GERMANY

IRISH ENTRY FOR AIR RACE

Colonel J. C. Fitzmaurice, the pilot of the monoplane, Irish Swoop, the Hospitals' Trust entry for the London-Melbourne air race, is still in Germany. Rough sea prevented the landing of his machine from the liner Bremen at Southampton on Friday last, and he was taken on to Bremerhaven, where the aeroplane was tuned up at the local aerodrome.

Yesterday he took off to fly to England, but after getting out over the sea found weather conditions and visibility very poor and decided to return to Bremerhaven. He is to receive further weather reports this morning, and hopes to fly the Bellanca monoplane to Eastleigh Aerodrome, Southampton, to-day.

THE POPE AND GERMANY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

VATICAN CITY, Monday.

The Pope to-day received 65 young Germans and 38 priests belonging to the Catholic German Youth Party, whose headquarters are at Dusseldorf.

Addressing the pilgrims the Pope said it was an especially important moment for the German Catholic Party, and especially for German youth. In these difficult times it was especially important that the right word should be spoken.

"Have faith, because your faith is challenged and is endangered," said His Holiness. "Act like men. Everyone must do his best, and in doing that will have done much."

A decree authorising the holding of a general election in Greece on November 24th was issued in Athens last night.

LINDBERGH BABY

CHARGE OF MURDER

INDICTMENT OF HAUPTMANN

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

FLEMINGTON (N.J.), Monday.

A GRAND Jury of 20 men and three women—most of whom are parents—to-day decided that Bruno Hauptmann is to be charged with the murder of Colonel Charles Lindbergh's baby.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard charged the jury to indict Hauptmann for murder if the State presented sufficient evidence that the child met its death accidentally or intentionally at the hands of Hauptmann.

In delivering his charge before the jury retired to hear testimony, the judge said that the purpose of convening the jury was for the presentation of evidence which the State thought "tends to show that one Hauptmann murdered Charles A. Lindbergh, jun., in this county on March 1st, 1932.

"The State's representatives definitely state to the Court that they will ask you to return only an indictment for murder at the present time."

Justice Trenchard added that the evidence tended to show that Hauptmann, "in the course of burglary . . . done for the purpose of stealing the infant son of Colonel Charles Lindbergh and its clothing, caused this child to be stricken or injured, as the result of which it died.

"The evidence," he concluded, "will show that the child was killed as the result of a blow inflicted by the accused."

AGENT'S STORY

Among the witnesses are the two Government agents, Millar and White. White has identified Hauptmann as the man he saw hanging round the Lindbergh home on several occasions prior to the kidnapping.

White has said that he saw Hauptmann twice emerge from bushes on the Lindbergh estate. He picked out Hruptmann from a line of ten men in an identification parade.

Colonel Schwartzkopf, head of the New Jersey State Police, regards White as a "credible witness," since, as he says, there are "no contradictions in his story."

Colonel Lindbergh was one of the first witnesses heard to-day. He testified for a quarter of an hour.

Other witnesses included the doctor who performed the autopsy on the body of the child, and handwriting experts.

Mr. Fawcett, Hauptmann's attorney, declared to-day that he was prepared to introduce witnesses "into any court" to show that Hauptmann was not present either at the kidnapping or at the transference of the ransom money.

The hearing of the witnesses and the deliberations of the jury occupied four hours and forty-two minutes. The indictment read in part:—"The Grand Jurors do present that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, on or about March 1st, 1932, with force and arms did wilfully and feloniously, and with malice aforethought, kill and murder Charles Lindbergh, junior."

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

MUSSOLINI'S DOCTRINE

The Times, in a leading article to-day, says:—Signor Mussolini has acquired a right of free speech in international affairs after the manner of Lord Palmerston in the last century, which enables him to make plain observations to other countries and to talk about the militarisation of his own, without in his case causing offence or rousing too many misgivings. His last speech, at Milan, was no exception to the rule. It has had a favourable reception in France, Austria and Hungary, and even Yugoslav comment is reported to be moderate. Yet a good deal of the speech was devoted to the theme that Italy must be militarist. He considers that a natural and logical connection exists between militarism and a régime of labour, peace and social justice. The Duce's philosophy seems, indeed, hardly distinguishable from the old watchword, Si vis pacem para bellum, but at least he does not actually advocate war as an instrument of policy. In regard to Austria, there can be no doubt of his sincerity when he says he does not want to establish a protectorate. He wishes to maintain Austria as an independent State between Italy and Germany, and, if he occasionally hints that Italy might be ready to fight for her independence, it can at least be claimed that his policy is identical with that of the League of Nations. It is, in particular, the policy of Great Britain and France and the States of the Little Entente. It is also the avowed policy of Germany.

Signor Mussolini devoted an equal part of his speech to home affairs, and an enormous and enthusiastic working-class audience was led to regard it as being addressed specially to themselves. By some of the audience, our Milan Correspondent reported, it was judged to be a Socialist declaration; by others a Nationalist. Undoubtedly, it was both Fascism, he said, wanted all individuals to be equal before the nation, and equally capable of bearing arms in its defence. The essence of the corporative system is that the productive effort of the individual must be controlled by the State for the benefit of all members of the State. It has been adopted in other countries than Italy, though it is not everywhere called by the same name. It is, in any case, antagonistic to, and incompatible with the Communist conceptions of State ownership, the control of consumption, and the stifling of individual initiative.

THE RUMANIAN FOREIGN MINISTRY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUKHAREST, Monday.

M. Titulescu, whose resignation of the post of Foreign Minister brought about a Cabinet crisis last week, to-day had long interviews with King Carol and the Prime Minister.

It is understood that the Premier, on behalf of the whole Cabinet, warmly urged M. Titulescu to resume the direction of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

M. Titulescu has reserved his reply until next Wednesday.

"THEATRE NOT GOING TO DIE"

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Monday.

An international Congress to discuss the modern theatre opened in Rome to-day. Among those attending are M. Maurice Maeterlinck, Mr. Crommelynk, Mr. Gordon Craig and Mr. W. B. Yeats.

Signor Luigi Pirandello, inaugurating the Congress, said that there were many congresses held to discuss modern drama—perhaps too many—but the fact remained that all the theatre's advisers were certain the patient was not going to die.

THE RESIGNATION OF GENERAL O'DUFFY

UNITED IRELAND PARTY'S DECISION

ACTION OF EXECUTIVE ENDORSED

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT

A BILL for the relief of farmers who are unable to pay their rates and land annuities is to be introduced in the Dail by the United Ireland Party.

This was announced at yesterday's meeting of the Deputies and Senators who are members of the party, and it will be discussed by leaders of the party at to-night's big public meeting at the Mansion House.

It is considered unlikely that overtures will be made to General O'Duffy to rejoin the party.

Yesterday's meeting of the party approved unanimously of the action of the Executive on the occasion of General O'Duffy's resignation.

BILL FOR RELIEF OF FARMERS

How Mr. Patrick Belton, T.D., proposes to heal the breach between General O'Duffy and the United Ireland Executive still is a mystery to his fellow-members in the party. Contrary to anticipations, he was not present at yesterday's meeting.

It was explained that Mr. Belton is suffering from pleurisy, and consequently the meeting, which had been summoned primarily to hear and consider his plan for bringing about a reconciliation, discussed instead ways and means of consolidating the Blue Shirt forces under the leadership of Commandant Cronin.

Not even the leaders of the party have any inkling as to what Mr. Belton's plan would involve, beyond the fact that it would necessitate bringing Commandant Cronin and General O'Duffy together for a friendly conference, and also an invitation to the General to re-join the United Ireland Party. The tone of yesterday's meeting suggests that such overtures are not likely to be made.

Members of the executive claim that the Blue Shirt conventions which are now being held throughout the twenty-six counties indicate an overwhelming volume of support for headquarters, as against General O'Duffy, and they are not disposed to meet General O'Duffy in any way. The meeting passed a resolution unanimously approving of the executive's action.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

After a discussion lasting four hours the following statement was issued:—

"A special meeting of the Fine Gael Party in the Oireachtas was held in No. 3 Merrion square this afternoon. Mr. Cosgrave presided. There was a large attendance of deputies and senators.

"General O'Duffy's resignation was discussed, and the following resolution was passed unanimously:—

"'The members of the Fine Gael Party of the Oireachtas, having fully considered the existing situation, unanimously approve of the action of the Vice-Presidents and the National Executive in their efforts to maintain unity, and express their confidence in the Vice-Presidents and the National Executive. They unanimously approve of the action taken by the National Executive on the occasion of General O'Duffy's resignation and subsequently.'

"The position arising in the country out of the forcible collection by the Government of land annuities was discussed. Various farmer deputies stressed the impoverishment of farmers and their utter inability to meet the demands of the Land Commission. It was announced that a Parliamentary bill would be introduced which will deal with the subject. The matter will be dealt with at the public meeting to be held in the Mansion House to-morrow night.

"The hardships of farmers in connection with the issue of licences for the sale of cattle also were under discussion, and it was stated that some non-nationals were in receipt of very large profits by reason of the distribution of those licences."

I learn that Mr. MacDermot, who was expected to speak at to-night's meeting, will not be present, as his health still is bad.

COMMANDANT CRONIN

Statements issued from United Ireland Party headquarters yesterday show that further resolutions of loyalty to Commandant Cronin's leadership have been passed at League of Youth conventions representing Carlow-Kilkenny, Co. Waterford, Leix, Clane (Co. Meath) and surrounding units, Naas district (21 units), Blackrock Ladies, Michael Collins branch of the United Ireland Party and League of Youth (Ballsbridge), and the Castledermot Branch of the United Ireland Party. Support for the new Director-General and the Executive was indicated at Blue Shirt dances on Sunday night at Kilmacow (Co. Waterford) and Kinnity (Offaly).

Speaking at the Kilmacow dance, Commandant Cronin referred to General O'Duffy's resignation, and said that personalities should not be allowed to enter into the matter, nor should there be any question as to who was leader. The fate of the movement and the fate of the people was at stake.

Captain Quinn declared that General O'Duffy had great patriotic ideals, and would not continue his campaign but for the encouragement he was getting from people who had not the country's interest at heart.

ACTIVITIES IN COUNTRY

Senator Blythe presided at the meeting of the South Kerry Executive of the Women's and Men's Section of the Blue Shirt organisation, which was held at Templenoe, Kenmare. Civic Guards and detectives were on duty in the vicinity. Among those present were: Colonel O'Neil, A. Brennan, T. Linehan, solicitor, Millstreet; T. O'Connor, Scorteen, Kenmare, County Director, and representatives from South Kerry centres.

No statement was issued.

The following statement was issued to Press representatives in Sligo yesterday:—

"At a full meeting of the Sligo County Division, League of Youth, which was held on Saturday, all district and unit officers being present, and Lieutenant J. J. Cahill (County Director) presiding, the following resolution was passed unanimously: 'That we, the Blue Shirts of County Sligo, feeling the irreparable damage that would be done to our movement if General O'Duffy were to cease to be our leader, and viewing with the gravest concern the present crisis in our organisation, call upon all parties concerned to put the national interest first, and take immediate steps to bring about a settlement.'"

A vote of confidence was passed unanimously in the County Director (Lieutenant Cahill.

GENERAL O'DUFFY

At the conclusion of conventions in Mohill and Manorhamilton General O'Duffy motored to Sligo on Sunday night. He was accompanied by his Secretary (Mr. T. P. Gunning). Some prominent local members of the League of Youth called on him at his hotel. General O'Duffy left Sligo at 11 a.m. yesterday by car for Dublin.

At Manorhamilton General O'Duffy had a very quiet reception from less than two dozen members of the League of Youth, who were addressed by him.

At a meeting which was held in private the Manorhamilton branch of the League of Youth unanimously decided to support General O'Duffy.

FOURTH FLIGHT TO KENYA AT 60

"FLYING KEEPS YOU YOUNG," SAYS GENERAL

Brigadier-General A. C. Lewin, of Cloghans, Co. Mayo, and Kenya Colony, who fought in the Boer War and is sixty years of age, is preparing for what will be his fourth flight to Kenya. He intends to set out early next month with his wife, who is a capable pilot, in a new 'plane, which he has purchased for the flight.

General Lewin, who is taking a course of blind flying instruction at Hamble (Hampshire), said yesterday: "Flying is full of surprises. It keeps you young. It is the finest game in the world."

General Lewin believes that flying is safer than driving a motor car as long as weather conditions are good. He learnt to fly three years ago and made his first 6,300 miles' trip to Kenya when he had flown about fifty hours solo.

'PLANE REPORTED MISSING

Channel shipping was yesterday warned by wireless to keep a look-out for aircraft G.A.B.O.T. (Pilot Davis), which left Paris with one passenger at 9.35 a.m. for Lympne, and which later was reported to be missing.

The 'plane was not fitted with wireless.

About an hour after departure from Paris the 'plane was seen by a Cross-Channel pilot flying over Oriel, Northern France, and afterwards it was seen by the same pilot about ten miles out over the Channel. Mr. Davis is believed to be a member of the Cinque Ports Flying Club, Lympne.

No alarm is felt at Lympne owing to the fact that the 'plane did not circle St. Inglevert Aerodrome. It is assumed that Mr. Davis has made a forced landing in France, in a country district, and is unable to get in communication with an aerodrome.

BOMB EXPLOSION IN VIENNA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

VIENNA, Monday.

The campaign of terror shows signs of reviving. A telephone box was blown up by a bomb to-night, and dynamite time-bombs were found in two other telephone boxes.

From propaganda leaflets found nearby it is surmised that Communists were responsible.

STERLING'S NEW LOW RECORD

PARIS NOT UNDULY CONCERNED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

The Paris Bourse was not unduly concerned over to-day's new low record of sterling, which closed at 74. Financial circles attribute this continued downward movement of the pound to seasonal requirements of dollars.

The opinion is expressed that it will cease automatically when the demand for dollars has been satisfied.

The market was, moreover, stimulated to buoyancy to-day by two causes—firstly, the result of the first ballot in yesterday's cantonal elections, which shows that the country in its vast majority is for M. Doumergue and against the Socialist-Communist common front; and, secondly, Signor Mussolini's Milan speech, in which he referred in encouraging terms to the prospects of a Franco-Italian rapprochement.

DEATH OF SIR ROBERT BAIRD

BELFAST NEWSPAPER OWNER

PROMINENT IN FREEMASONRY

WE regret to announce the death, which took place in Belfast yesterday, of Sir Robert Hugh Hanley Baird, K.B.E., D.L., J.P., one of the best-known and most popular personalities in British and Irish journalism.

Born in 1855 he was the son of Mr. William S. Baird, one of the founders of W. and G. Baird, Ltd., general printers, and of the Belfast Telegraph. He was educated at the Royal Academical Institution, Belfast, and on leaving school he entered his father's firm, taking his position at "the case," and served a full term as an apprentice. After mastering all the technicalities of printing he turned to journalism, and in time became an assistant editor on the Telegraph.

In this manner, although he never displayed remarkable abilities as a writer, Sir Robert equipped himself thoroughly for the practical task of controlling a group of newspapers. On the death of his father, in 1886, he was entrusted with the management of the business, which has advanced and extended under his unrelaxing personal direction and supervision. The Belfast Telegraph's associated journals, which have been originated and conducted under his control (with the dates of their foundation) are:—Belfast Weekly Telegraph (1873), Ballymena Telegraph (1887), Larne Times (1891), Ireland's Saturday Night (1874), Irish Daily Telegraph (1904).

HONOUR OF KNIGHTHOOD

Sir Robert received his knighthood, which was in recognition of his many-sided public services, on the occasion of the King's visit to Belfast in June, 1921, to open the Northern Ireland Parliament. During the War he was Irish representative on the Admiralty, War Office, and Press Committee of Great Britain and Ireland.

He was elected President of the Master Printers' Federation in 1910-11, and of the Irish Newspaper Society and kindred trade organisations in 1913. For many years he has been Chairman of the Belfast Branch of the Newspaper Press Fund, and he has twice filled the position of Chairman of the Ulster District, Institute of Journalists. He also presided for several years over the Advertising Club of Ulster, and was, in fact, the doyen of advertising, both in Great Britain and Ireland.

Despite the strenuous work he put into his own business (even in recent years he was at his desk before nine o'clock every morning), Sir Robert found time to throw himself whole-heartedly into all public activities connected with his own city. For years he was one of the most prominent members of the Belfast Harbour Commissioners, while he was also a Governor of the Royal Victoria Hospital and a past chairman of the Committee of the Belfast Savings Bank.

MASONIC CONNECTION

A prominent Freemason of many years' standing, Sir Robert attained the rank of thirty-second degree, being Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of Ireland. He was initiated in Excelsior Lodge 109 in the year 1885, and passed the Chair in 1896. He was Senior Warden of the Province of Antrim at the Grand Lodge of Ireland in 1910. For a long time he represented the Grand Lodge of Virginia, U.S.A., at the Grand Lodge of Ireland. When visiting Virginia during an American tour in 1922, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Major-General Sir Menus O'Keeffe, K.C.M.G., P.M., of Motherland Lodge, London, he attended, by invitation, a meeting of Richmond Randolph Lodge No. 19 (October 17, 1922), which meets in the oldest Masonic Hall in the U.S.A., having been built in the year 1785. Sir Robert also represented the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Oregon at the Supreme Grand R.A.C. of Ireland. He was the first W.M. of Press Lodge, Belfast, No. 432, founded in 1917, and Past Grand Registrar of the Grand Lodge of Ireland.

In the Loyal Orange Order he was Hon. Deputy Grand Master of Scotland and a D.G.M. of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland.

VISITS TO AMERICA

In the years 1922-'23 Sir Robert Baird went to the United States and Canada—which he had previously visited in 1906 and 1911—to extend an invitation, on behalf of the Advertising Club of Ulster, to the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World (to which Ulster was the only affiliated club in the United Kingdom) to hold the annual convention for 1924 in London, and to urge the American delegates to visit the North of Ireland before returning to the States.

Sir Robert, whose invitation was accepted, carried with him on that occasion gifts of handkerchiefs, manufactured of Belfast linen, for the presidents of the various advertising clubs in America.

Interviewed by a representative of the Editor and Publisher during this American visit, Sir Robert was reported as saying that he believed in prohibition and that he wished it existed in Great Britain. Nevertheless, his own temperament was a convivial one. He had a large circle of friends; for he was an excellent companion, a capital raconteur, and always ready to listen to a good story.

As an employer, he insisted on hard work, but he took a personal interest in the welfare of every member of his staff, to whom his generosity was never-failing.

Sir Robert was twice married. His first wife, who died in 1918, was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. R. J. Browne, who was associated with the Irish management of the North British Railway Company. His second wife, to whom he was married in 1920, and who survives him, was also a daughter of the late Mr. Browne. Sir Robert is also survived by his brother, Major William Baird, J.P., who is a director of the concern of which Sir Robert was the head.

MANY TRIBUTES

The Lord Mayor of Belfast has sent the following telegram to Lady Baird at Park Lodge:—"Deeply regret the passing of your dear husband. My wife and I tender heartfelt sympathy in your bereavement. The citizens will long mourn the loss of Sir Robert, who was renowned for his many acts of kindness and charity."

Lord Craigavon, on being informed, made the following moving reference to him:—"I am exceedingly sorry to hear of Sir Robert's death. The old oaks amongst us are falling fast, and I have seen a good many of them, but none more truly beloved than Sir Robert himself."

The Earl of Donoughmore, head of the Masonic Order in Ireland, who visited Sir Robert last Friday, telegraphed:—"Deeply grieved to hear to-day's news of Sir Robert Baird's death. He will be gratefully remembered far and wide for many years to come.—Donoughmore."

From the Irish Newspaper Society came this telegram:—"Please accept and convey to Lady Baird and relatives deep sympathy from Irish Newspaper Society and Dublin managers on death of Sir Robert Baird.—Whitehead, Chairman."

The funeral will take place to-morrow (Wednesday) at 11 o'clock to the City Cemetery, Belfast.

INTEREST IN BOYS' SCHOOL

A prominent member of the Masonic Order in Dublin, referring to the passing of Sir Robert, said that Sir Robert would best be recalled outside the memory of his own genial personality by his wonderful generosity to the charities that were organised in connection with the Order.

A great deal of what Sir Robert did was only known to very few members of the Order.

It was quite a usual occurrence for him, when on a visit to the Boys' School at Clonskea, to leave a sum of money sufficient to give 2s. 6d. as pocket money to each boy in the school.

On the occasions when the Rugby football XV. from the school travelled to Belfast the boys, and those accompanying them, from the time they left the train until they boarded it again, were always the guests of Sir Robert, who entertained them to lunch, showed them over the Telegraph offices, sent them to the football match, gave them tea, and finally sent them back again to the train.

It was such good acts of generosity as those, which can only be known to a few people, more or less of Sir Robert Baird's own immediate circle, that were typical of the man.

JUDGMENT FOR MR. DE VALERA

DISPUTED WILL CASE

"EFFECTS" INCLUDE SUMS IN BANK

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday.

IN the Chancery Division to-day, Mr. Justice Clauson decided that under the will of Miss Polly Mary Fitzpatrick, a recluse, who was found dead at Russell square, Brighton, in July, 1932, two sums of money at the bank were given to Mr. Eamon de Valera, President of the Irish Free State Executive Council.

The matter was brought before the Court by Mr. Herbert Deane, administrator of the estate, who asked for directions as to the disposal of sums of £349 4s. 6d. and £1,186 14s. 1d., which were in the bank.

Mr. A. L. Ungoed Thomas appeared for Mr. Deane; Mr. J. N. Gray for Mr. de Valera, the first defendant, and Mr. Roger Turnbull for the second defendant, Mr. John Fitzpatrick, of South Circular road, Dublin.

In the Probate Court last December it was held that the will made by Miss Fitzpatrick in March, 1932, leaving her house, furniture and effects to Mr. de Valera, was a good will. It had been opposed by Mr. John Fitzpatrick. At that time it was stated that Mr. de Valera did not intend to profit by the estate, but would use it as a trust for public purposes, such as Miss Fitzpatrick had in mind.

Mr. Thomas stated the question for the Court—whether the two sums named passed to Mr. de Valera under the will—and said that the value of the whole estate was about £3,107.

Mr. Turnbull argued that there was no gift to Mr. de Valera of the sums in the bank—that the only gift was that of the "house, furniture and effects."

MEANING OF "EFFECTS"

Mr. Gray submitted that the word "effects" sufficed to carry the bank deposits to Mr. de Valera. "Effects," he argued, included the whole of the personal estate. In the will Miss Fitzpatrick said that she did not wish any of her relatives to have anything; so it was obvious that she intended Mr. de Valera to have all she left. She directed that Mr. de Valera, her sole executor, should collect any sums due to her, and as she had already said that she did not want relatives to have anything, she must have meant her executor to have these sums.

Mr. Turnbull contended, in reply, that the word "effects" was related to the furniture, and really meant what was to be found in the House, and nothing more. If she had intended the money to pass by the gift of effects, the later clause in the will—"No person claiming to be related to me, or related to me, is to have any money, property or effects belonging to me"—would be valueless.

THE JUDGMENT

In giving judgment Mr. Justice Clauson said that unless the gift of the money were read into the word "effects," there was no good residuary gift in the will. "Effects" was a word of wide meaning, which might well carry all the testatrix's residue. He had to study the will to see what was her intention. One thing was perfectly clear. She did not intend that her relatives should benefit by her will. It must be assumed that she was sufficiently aware of the law of the country to know that on an intestacy the relatives would obtain some interest in her property, and that assisted him. What was the intention that peeped out of the will? It appeared to him that it was Miss Fitzpatrick's intention that Mr de Valera should get not only the house and furniture, but also the "effects," in the sense of everything with which she had to deal.

His lordship, therefore, held that "effects" carried with it the two sums concerned, and that there was no intestacy regarding them. He made declarations accordingly.

SEDITIOUS LITERATURE

STRABANE MAN FINED £10

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

STRABANE, Monday.

At Strabane Petty Sessions to-day, before Messrs. P. S. Bell, R.M. (presiding), and Mr. Jones, R.M., J. C. McCrossan, of Meetinghouse street, Strabane, was charged under the Civil Authorities (Special Powers) Act with possession of a seditious document.

Head-Constable Blevans, Strabane, said that he entered the house where the defendant resided and told him he intended to carry out a search of the house for seditious documents, and asked him if he had any in his possession. McCrossan immediately went to a picture and took from behind the frame a copy of An Phoblacht. Witness questioned McCrossan, who replied, "I get a few each week for distribution; I will not tell from whom."

Replying to Mr. Bell, Constable Gibson said that he did not think McCrossan had any intention of coming into Court that day.

Mr. Bell said that this was a very serious offence, and it looked as if the defendant from his non-appearance would not recognise the Court. As there was no previous conviction the magistrates were allowing him off with a fine of £10, giving him eight days to pay, or an alternative of two months' imprisonment.

FATAL COLLISION

Pending the result of investigations on behalf of the Attorney-General, Dr. D. A. MacErlean, Dublin City Coroner, adjourned an inquest in the Richmond Hospital, Dublin, yesterday on William Glynn (38), of the North Circular road.

It appeared that Glynn, a porter employed by the Great Southern Railways, when cycling along North King street on Saturday evening came into collision with a motor lorry, the property of the Great Southern Railways.

Dr. Mary O'Donnell said that death was due to extensive injuries to the skull and brain.

Mr. Sean Ryan, solicitor, appeared for the Great Southern Railways; Mr. Joseph Gleeson, solicitor, for the driver of the lorry; and Station-Sergeant O'Reilly represented the Civic Guards.

NEWSPAPERS CONFISCATED

Last Saturday's editions of The Times and the Manchester Guardian were confiscated in Berlin yesterday, says Reuter. The Times contained an article from its Vienna correspondent reporting Austrian allegations of Nazi complicity in the revolt of July, and the Manchester Guardian had a leading article on the impending trial of Herr Thaelmann, the imprisoned Communist leader.

Muldoon admitted that his land annuity had been reduced by one half under the 1933 Act, and the defendant offered him £2 10s., but he refused to accept it. The Justice held that the defendant was entitled as sub-tenant to the benefit of the Act, and dismissed the plaintiff's claim for the full rent.

BLAMING IT ON ROTARY

INTERESTING PAPER BY MR. HERBERT BAILEY

At the weekly meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club in the Metropole Restaurant yesterday, under the title of "I Blame Rotary," Mr. Herbert Bailey, a member of the club, read a paper, in the course of which he gave a running sketch of his early life in England, and how he first became acquainted with a dramatic and operatic society. "The Drone," by Rutherford Mayne, played in a small theatre in Derbyshire, made such a favourable impression upon him that soon afterwards he migrated to Ireland and saw the play at the Opera House, Belfast. From that sprung the first visit of the Ulster plays to the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, and thence the numerous charity performances and the Red Cross work during the war. Rotary had let him in for grand opera and the Civic Week, when he was requested to produce stories dealing with the history of Dublin. He felt sure that but for Rotary, which had done very much for the poor children of Dublin, he should never have been interested in the Sea Scouts or the Boy Scouts. Rotary had made him a clown at hospital Christmas entertainments, along with the willing pantomime clowns and comedians. It was a pleasure to help the stalwarts of the Rotary Club, who run the Christmas shows at the hospitals year after year.

Mr. P. Dolan, Vice-President, who was in the chair, on behalf of the club, thanked Mr. Bailey for his interesting reminiscences.

The visitors were:—Dr. Reid, Harrisburgh, U.S.A.; Mr. R. Lester, Cork; Mr. Trevor Cather, and Mr. W. F. Harris, Dublin; the Rev. Wm. Meara, Johannesburg.

Mr. T. Grehan moved a vote of condolence with the family of the late Dr. James A. Walsh, who died rather suddenly at his residence, Highfield road, Rathgar, on Saturday. He was the sixth of the past Presidents of the club who had passed away in the past few years. Dr. Walsh was a kindly, charitable man, who did good work in an unostentatious manner, and was a very good citizen.

The motion was passed in silence, the members standing.

HOSPITALS' SYSTEM INVESTIGATION

TOUR OF FREE STATE OFFICIALS

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

Representatives of the Department of Local Government and Public Health and the Free State Hospitals Commission, who are investigating the hospitals' system in various countries in order to frame a scheme for the expenditure of sweepstakes funds on the "hospitalisation" of the Free State, conclude to-day their tour of the Scottish Highlands, and will now leave for London en route for Denmark.

Valuable information has been gathered in the Highlands, where conditions are considered to approximate very closely to those in the Irish Free State. The party interviewed doctors and inspected hospitals and the motor ambulance system which operates in isolated areas. The expedition will spend a week in Denmark, and will then finish its tour in the Nancy district of France.

The members of the party are Dr. F. C. Ward, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health; Mr. M. W. Doran, Chairman of the Hospitals Commission; Dr. R. MacDonnell, chief medical officer of the Department; and Dr. Madden, who is a member of the Hospitals Commission. The tour is being undertaken in co-operation with the Health Section of the League of Nations, which is defraying half the cost.

THE PILGRIMS' RETURN

CURES CLAIMED AT LOURDES

Of the 1,300 pilgrims who disembarked from the Cunard White Star liner, Laurentic, at the North Wall, Dublin, yesterday morning, there was none so happy as Miss Elizabeth Brown, of Wexford, and Miss Margaret Reyner, Limerick. These two girls were among the invalids who had gone on the Irish Franciscan Tertiary Pilgrimage to Lourdes a week ago, and during their stay at the shrine, it is stated, they had been cured.

Altogether, there were eighty official invalids on the pilgrimage, and some twenty who were not certified as such. They were accommodated in three large lounges, which for the purposes of the pilgrimage, had been converted into temporary hospitals.

One of the girls, who was stated to have been cured, could not walk when she began the pilgrimage, while the other also suffered from paralysis. At the completion of the journey both said that they had been cured.

Owing to the rough weather the captain of the Laurentic decided to reduce the speed of the vessel during her home voyage, with the result that she was not able to berth until late on Sunday night. The passengers had to remain on board until yesterday morning. In delaying the captain was solely concerned with the comfort of the pilgrims. A large crowd of friends and relatives welcomed the returned pilgrims, despite the early hour, and special 'buses and motor cars were in readiness to convey the travellers to their homes or embarking stations.

Several of the more urgent invalid cases had been removed from the ship on Sunday night, but the majority were not disturbed until yesterday morning, when members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade and Catholic Girl Guides helped in their disembarkation.

The Rev. Father Fridolin, who was the director of the pilgrimage, said that it was a great success.

The pilgrimage included the Most Rev. J. G. Neville, C.S.Sp., who has spent much of his life on the African missions. He told an Irish Times reporter that all the pilgrims seemed to have made the journey with the maximum of comfort. He paid a tribute to the courtesy of the ship's officials.

The Most Rev. Dr. MacNeely, Bishop of Raphoe, also stated that the pilgrimage was most successful.

A French pilot who had conducted the Laurentic from Le Verdon was compelled to continue the journey to Dublin.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, who was one of the pilgrims, entertained the Bishop of Raphoe and the Most Rev. Dr. Neville in the Gresham Hotel after their disembarkation.

A pilgrimage on similar lines is to be organised for next year by the Franciscan Order.

SIR HERBERT SAMUEL INDISPOSED

It was learned in Glasgow last night that Sir Herbert Samuel, who arrived in the city on Sunday as the guest of Sir D. M. Stevenson, Chancellor of Glasgow University, had become indisposed and had entered a local nursing home for observation. The symptoms are not considered alarming, and Sir Herbert's stay in the nursing home is only as a precautionary measure. He has been compelled to cancel his immediate engagements.

Sir Herbert had just completed a busy week-end, having attended the Scottish Liberal Federation annual meeting at Dundee on Friday, and attended a mass demonstration there on Friday evening. On Saturday he was in the Dundee area making investigations in connection with small holdings.

It was suggested last night that Sir Herbert may be able to leave the nursing home to-day. Lady Samuel left London yesterday to visit him.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE

It was announced by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries last night that the existence of foot-and-mouth disease was confirmed yesterday among pigs at Staden, near Buxton. The total amount subscribed to the Denbighshire County Fund for the relief of the Gresford colliery disaster sufferers is now £68,500.

TRANS-BORDER INCIDENT

SEQUEL TO CASE OF SMUGGLING

SOUTHERN DEALER TAKEN TO BELFAST

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ARMAGH, Monday.

A PROSECUTION for smuggling, heard some months ago at Newry, has had a remarkable sequel in Armagh. The defendant was Mr. Hugh O'Neill, of Castleblayney, County Monaghan (just across the Northern border), an extensive cattle dealer. It is understood that three charges were preferred against him—two in respect of smuggling and one in respect of an alleged false declaration.

The defendant was convicted on all three, and fines amounting to upwards of £1,000 were imposed.

A stay was put upon the execution of the warrant on the defendant's procuring bail, himself in a £2,000 bond and two sureties of £1,000 each, and the orders were allowed to stand to a subsequent date to ascertain whether there would be a mitigation of the penalty.

The defendant, however, failed to appear at the appointed sessions.

A subsequent application to estreat the recognisances was adjourned until October 17th at Newry Sessions.

The next development was on Saturday night last, when four men with a motor car called at the defendant's house at Castleblayney and conveyed him to the Russell Street Barracks, Armagh. There he was placed under arrest, and afterwards was taken by the Customs police to the County Jail on Crumlin road, Belfast.

It is understood that an effort will be made to have him released on a motion for habeas corpus.

MAKING OF ELECTRIC LIGHT BULBS

PROPOSED FACTORY NEAR BRAY

On the site of the mansion known as Corke Abbey, near Bray, and with the addition of the Winter Gardens building of the Dublin Theatre Royal, arrangements are being made for the manufacture of electric light bulbs. From the start of local production it is understood that a duty of 75 per cent. will be placed on imported bulbs. Until then they will be admitted free of duty under quota, to obviate the flooding of the market. It is understood that machinery for the factory has been secured from Messrs. Gladitz, of Berlin, who will supply key hands to train local labour.

At first only the interior of the bulbs will be manufactured, and when this process has been mastered the making of glass bulbs, holders, glass shades, switches and wiring will be undertaken. It is thought that seventy employés will be needed at the outset.

The directors are:—Mr. David Frame, Hammond Lane Foundry (Chairman); Mr. J. J. Walsh (Vice-Chairman); Mr. McCabe, of the South City Market and Cold Storage Companies, and Mr. M. W. O'Reilly, New Ireland Insurance Company.

In view of the gradual development of the business, only the capital needed for the initial processes is to be called for, and, with this object, a public flotation of £50,000 will be made early next month.

FEWER UNEMPLOYED IN GREAT BRITAIN

FIRST DECREASE FOR THREE MONTHS

A drop of over 50,000 in the number of unemployed is shown in the monthly return of the British Ministry of Labour which was issued last night.

This is the first decrease since May, the last three months having shown increases of 2,000, 33,000 and 10,000 respectively.

The industries in which the improvement was most marked were coal mining, woollen and worsted manufacture, the boot and shoe industry and pottery manufacture. There also was some improvement in employment in the iron and steel, cotton and hosiery industries. Employment declined in the distributive trades, in hotel and boarding house service, in building and public works contracting, and in the shipping service.

At September 24 last the numbers of unemployed persons on the registers of employment exchanges in Great Britain were 1,647,673 wholly unemployed, 362,695 temporarily stopped, and 81,618 normally in casual employment, making a total of 2,081,987. This was 54,591 less than the number on the registers at August 20, 1934, and 254,740 less than a year before. The total on September 24 last comprised 1,658,481 men, 65,339 boys, 306,721 women and 51,446 girls.

SWORDS BIGAMY CHARGE

At Swords District Court yesterday, before District Justice Reddin, Waldron Thomas Kelly, of Mountgorry, Swords, Co. Dublin, was charged with bigamy.

Superintendent Walsh said that the accused man had married Margaret O'Leary in the Pro-Cathedral on February 7th, 1909, and she was still alive in Parnell street, Dublin, but was ill and unable to attend court. On May 2nd of the present year he married Miss Catherine Mary Connor in the Catholic Church, Swords.

Sergeant Wickham said that when arrested the accused man said: "I admit it; I am glad its over. It has been hanging over me for a long time."

He was remanded on bail to the next Court.

SHOTS AT DANCE HALL

Shots were fired at a hall at Shannonharbour, Offaly, on Sunday night, during a dance, attended by about 200 people.

The roof and sides of the hall were pierced with pellets and bullets, and all the dancers lay on the floor while the firing continued. One man received a pellet in the knee, and the face of another was grazed. The dance was resumed after the firing, which is stated to have continued for some minutes.

THE SPANISH REVOLT

civil guards, which they are still holding, although a column of infantry, with machine guns and trench mortars, was sent from Saragossa to dislodge them.

The driver of a lorry bringing up shock guards was killed.

It is semi-officially announced that troops are advancing into the mountainous region of the Asturias, where the rebels have taken refuge. Aeroplanes are being used to bomb the rebels, and a number of groups have already surrendered.

The entry of foreign newspapers into Spain has been forbidden.

It was reported that the general railway strike may become effective to-morrow. The Government replied by militarising the railways and calling up all the railway reservists. The railway workers thus become automatically under military service, and can be shot at once for refusing to work. They are given 24 hours in which to present themselves.

A detachment of troops from Moncala arrived in the nick of time this afternoon to prevent Anarchists cutting off the water supply of Barcelona.

The police have made the tradespeople in the centre of Madrid sign an undertaking to keep their shops open under the penalty of being fined 20,000 pesetas (£500).

200 POLICE KILLED

An unconfirmed report states that the number of policemen killed by revolutionaries in the Asturias on the first day of the fighting was 200.

The police penetrated into the hilly country in order to dislodge the miners who had entrenched there. They were ambushed, and shot down like rats.

It is now revealed that in Mondragon, near San Sebastian, the rebels had erected a wooden scaffold in front of the Town Hall, on which they intended to hang all those who refused to join them, and also all police and Civil Guards who fell into their hands.

Valuable art treasures were destroyed when an historic sixteenth century church was burned to the ground by the strikers at Paterno del Campo, near Seville.

At the town of Navas, 50 miles from Barcelona, extremists are said to have arrested a cure, sprinkled his vestments with petrol and set him on fire. The priest was burned to death.

At the town of San Vicente de Castillet another priest narrowly escaped the same fate. The rebels, furious at losing their prey, thereupon set the church on fire.

A TOUR OF BARCELONA

'BUS AND TRAM DRIVERS' ORDEAL

"I have just made a tour of the docks area," writes Reuter's Correspondent in Barcelona. "Every other side street has in it a demolished barricade, the site of a desperate street struggle.

"From the streets the Anarchists have taken to the roofs. As I went in a tram from the Plaza Cataluna down the Rambla shots rang out.

"Instantly everyone in the tram fell flat, while every soldier in the street brought his rifle to the ready. After a moment's hesitation the tram drove on.

"I got out in the wide square before the Post Office. I had hardly been there a minute before I found myself in the midst of an exchange of shots from either side of me between the redoubtable green-clad Civil Guards, in their picturesque square black hats, and snipers on roofs. After an uncomfortable two minutes I sprang on to a passing 'bus.

"Too great praise cannot be bestowed on the 'bus and tram drivers of Barcelona. It was part of the orders of General Batet that all public conveyances were to run normally to day. These drivers, taking their vehicles through the worst areas, are considered as renegades by the revolutionaries. They are the natural mark of every sniper.

"The passengers may lie on the floor while the windows shatter above them, but the tram driver presents his breast to the enemy, and the 'bus driver sits with his whole body fully exposed."

It seems certain that the revolt generally in Catalonia is mastered, but sporadic fighting is bound to continue with more or less fierceness until the roof snipers give in through lack of munitions or hunger.

DOCTOR-ATHLETE IN COURT

CASE DISMISSED

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CLONMEL, Monday.

Dr. Patrick O'Callaghan, the Olympic Games champion, was defendant at Clonmel District Court to-day in three charges:—(1) Of killing two grouse during the close season on August 10 at Russellstown Mountain; (2) entering the lands without authority with a gun and shooting game, and (3) having, on August 13, entered the same lands with a gun in pursuit of game.

Thomas O'Neill, gamekeeper, deposed to seeing Dr. O'Callaghan fire shots on preserves at Russellstown on the day in question. Dr. O'Callaghan, whom he had seen first in a motor car, was accompanied by another man whom witness did not recognise.

John Prendergast, labourer, said that he saw Dr. O'Callaghan and another man in the motor at Russellstown on one of the days in question.

Dr. O'Callaghan gave evidence that he was only on the lands of Russellstown once in August. That was in 1933. He emphatically denied that he was there on the dates alleged. He had loaned his motor on one of these dates—on August 10. At the time he was alleged to be at Russellstown he was attending a greyhound racing meeting in Clonmel with a companion named Liam Collins, and on August 13 he was coursing greyhounds at Clonmel.

Collins gave evidence in support of the doctor's statement, and John Keeffe said that on August 13 he was with Dr. O'Callaghan coursing greyhounds in Clonmel.

Acting District Justice McCarthy said that if he found against Dr. O'Callaghan in the case he would have to act on the assumption that the doctor was committing perjury. On the other hand, it was possible that the witnesses for the prosecution were making a genuine mistake. He dismissed the case.

NEW HOUSES FOR MULLINGAR

At the meeting of Mullingar Town Commissioners, Mr. Owen Comiskey, County Council, presiding, on the motion of Mr. T. Thompson, seconded by Mr. D. Hayden, it was decided to accept the offer made by Mr. James Daly, Mullingar, of 6½ acres of land as a site for building cottages for a sum of £500.

The Chairman said that the purchase of this site would enable the Commissioners to help to provide adequate accommodation for the working classes in modern houses at a nominal rent. It was their intention to erect 72 houses on this site equipped with bathrooms.

MIDLETON (COUNTY CORK) FAIR

PROSPECTS OF SLAUGHTER

THE ONLY HOPE OF PEACE

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S APPEAL

MR. LLOYD GEORGE was the principal speaker at a meeting held last night in the City Temple, London, to welcome Dr. Norwood on his return from a world tour.

He said that he considered the pulpit an essential part of the equipment of the higher civilisation. He spoke of the gospel of peace as the message for to-day, and went on to discuss the recent speech of Signor Mussolini, "the greatest realist in Europe."

He talks, said Mr. Lloyd George, about training the children of Italy, from seven upwards, to the use of arms. He is going to attune the minds of children to the prospects of slaughter—not of peace, not of good-will, not of brotherhood, but of killing. Henceforth, if that policy is to be followed by every statesman in the world, you will have a scroll on the walls of every school: "Little children, kill one another." Mussolini said: I shall have an Army of 8,000,000.

Italy, continued Mr. Lloyd George, is not the only country that is talking like that. You hear of a new poison gas invented in America. You hear of a death ray which they have found in France—what a discovery, and they are delighted about it. You have a conference down at Bristol which carries unanimously a resolution in favour of increasing armaments in Great Britain, and I am told that they are training pilots in Germany for bombing. That is the world of to-day. It is a jungle, and the nations are prowling through it, snarling at each other, baring their teeth at each other. Any moment a mistaken gesture or a misunderstood arrangement may make them spring again at each others throats and tear and rend each other.

"NOT YET!"

Not yet, not yet! They are licking their wounds now. They are refilling their veins. They have not recovered their strength. But you have an uneasy feeling when you talk, either here or to foreigners, or to people who know what is going on, that the moment they have recovered their power they may renew the struggle in order to revenge past hurts, to recapture past prestige, or in order—and this is a consideration—to repair past blunders which lost last time. All that is making for the renewal of the conflict.

During the last two or three years, Mr. Lloyd George said, he had been walking in memory through that jungle from 1914 to 1918. What struck him most was not even the terrible carnage; it was the absolute indifference with which it was regarded, the acquiescence of the most highly civilised nations in Christendom in all destruction, devastation, slaughter, mutilation and suffering.

Do not trust human nature, he went on. It is a savage race, the race of mankind, when it is aroused, when its ferocity is stirred up. There is no war going to come just yet, in my judgment, but I may be wrong. I thought so in 1914; I thought it was inconceivable, and I may be wrong now. But, even with all my optimistic temperament, I tell you there is only just time to stop it—just time.

He did not see anybody who could stop it, except the Christian Churches. To them he said—"Act promptly, in the name of God and humanity." I hope, he added, they will, and will do it soon. If the Churches fail, I do not know what is going to happen. I am beginning to lose faith in conferences. I have seen so many of them and I have seen so little come out of them. They are too often a sort of prearranged blather. They are a justification for the full orchestra to perform, from the drums and trombones down to the triangle, and I have played each of them in my time. There is nothing in this case will save the world but what was once called the foolishness of preaching.

PRIEST INSULTED ON TRAIN

ORANGEMAN INTERFERES TO PROTECT HIM

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ENNISKILLEN, Monday.

At Enniskillen Petty Sessions to-day Thomas Carson and John W. Carson, Cherrymount, and William John McClintock, Mill street, Enniskillen, were charged with conduct calculated to lead to a breach of the peace.

District-Inspector S. McNeill said that since the summonses had been served the police were satisfied that John W. Carson was not guilty of any offence, and with the magistrates' permission he would withdraw the case against him.

Lawrence McKiggin, aged 15, of Dame street, Enniskillen, said that he had been selling Orange buds at an Orange demonstration in Lisnaskea. When he got into the train for Enniskillen he sat down beside a young priest. Sitting opposite him he saw Thomas Carson and William J. McClintock, wearing Orange sashes. They were "acting the drunken man." Carson took off his sash and put it on the priest. The priest took off the sash and asked him "For God's sake to leave him alone." McClintock also put his sash on the priest. Carson then held the priest's hands and McClintock struck him on the chest. The expression was used, "Curse the Pope," but he could not say which of them used it. When the train arrived at Maguiresbridge they took the sash off the priest and looked out of the window. When the train started from Maguiresbridge McClintock shouted to the priest, "Up, Ballinamallard, where a Fenian can't go through," and "Up, Lisbellaw, where they make the Orange tweed." A man wearing an Orange sash who was in the carriage told Carson he would break his neck. Witness was a bit afraid and got up and walked to the other side of the carriage, and a man was going to pull the communication cord and said he would stop the arguments. When they got to Enniskillen a railway man told Carson he knew him and would get him arrested.

Mrs. Olive Robinson, Kesh, identified Thomas Carson as one of the men who put the sash on the priest, but would not swear to the other defendant. They did not strike the priest as far as she saw. Witness told of the Orangeman interfering on the clergyman's behalf, and said that the priest interfered and would not let him touch Carson.

In answer to the District-Inspector, witness said she was ashamed of the conduct in the train and apologised to the clergyman for it.

Defendants denied the offence.

The Court bound both defendants over in the sum of £10 each, the Chairman (Mr. Copeland Trimble, J.P.) remarking that it was one of the most painful cases that had come before a Court for some time.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

A DOLL'S HOUSE DAMAGED

LITTLE PEOPLE NOT GUILTY

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Ellen Finn and Clare Finn (sisters), of Mountjoy place, and Denis Newbury, all under 20 years of age, were charged with having caused malicious damage to the extent of £164 to a doll's house, the property of Ernest Radford Dagnall, by whom they were employed to act as "small people" in his show at the Esplanade, Kingsbridge.

Dagnall said that he was exhibiting this doll's house at the Esplanade, and the three accused persons were engaged to sit in the house and appear as small people. Everything was all right on the night of the 17th September last, but on the following day when he went to the place he found that a concave mirror, for which he had paid £400, had been damaged. A smaller mirror and the windows and furniture in the house had been damaged also. The two girls had been in his employment since June, and the youth Newbury since March last.

Cross-examined by Mr. C. Starkey, for the defence, witness said that his arrangement with the three accused persons was that he was to look after them and pay for their board and keep. That cost him from £3 15s. to £4 10s. a week. They worked only about three hours a day—crocheting, sitting or reading in the doll's house. He denied that he owed them £3 4s. 7d., and had refused to pay. He admitted that the large concave mirror had been damaged in transit to Ireland, and that he had a claim against the shipping company.

Clare Finn admitted going to the place on the 18th September and damaging some of the property, but not the concave mirror.

Denis Newbury said he did not touch the concave mirror, but admitted breaking windows. Helen Finn also denied touching the concave mirror.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Mr. M. F. O'Donnell (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted.

GUARD AND EX-GUARD

PUT BACK FOR SENTENCE

Thomas Healy, an ex-member of the Garda Siochana, and John Lacey, a member of the Garda at present under suspension, pleaded guilty to having broken and entered the premises of William Egan, 27 Lower Ormond quay, on the night of 14th August last and stolen cigarettes and matches. They also pleaded guilty to entering the shop of Patrick O'Reilly, 37 Cornmarket, with intent to steal.

Mr. J. V. Nolan Whelan (instructed by Mr. O'Doherty, solicitor) said that Healy had been Tailteann Games champion in the 16lb. shot and discus. He joined the D.M.P. in 1922 and later the Guards, and resigned in January this year. Whilst he was awaiting trial for shooting and wounding a man in a public-house in November last in Harold's Cross he was knocking about the city with nothing to do and, with Lacey, took to drink. They broke into the premises at Ormond quay under a drunken impulse to get cigarettes. Lacey had served in the I.R.A. in 1917, and later joined the National Army, and then the Garda in 1924. He was married, with four children, and up to this offence had an excellent character. He was a friend of Healy, and when Healy went down he went down also. Both men could get employment if allowed out.

Both the accused men were put back.

Mr. M. J. Connolly (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted.

IMPRISONMENT FOR HOUSEBREAKING

James Dolan (22), 4rd Ri road, Dublin, an ex-chef and ex-'bus conductor, was sent to prison for six months, with hard labour, having been found guilty of breaking into several houses in the city and stolen property, including a loving cup and articles of jewellery, valued £140.

Inspector Wolfe, who had charge of the case, said that, so far, the police had been unable to trace the loving cup.

David Hewitt (42), employed as manager by the "Two Guineas Tailors," Mary street, was sent to eight months' imprisonment for having embezzled from his employers sums amounting to £45.

Thomas Ward, a middle-aged man, of Temple street, Dublin, was sent to prison for six months when found guilty of indecent offences against two little girls aged twelve and twelve and a half years.

FREE STATE INDUSTRIES

PROTECTION FOR IRON-FOUNDERS

The meeting of the Council of the Federation of Saorstat Industries, Ltd., was held at 17 Dame street, Dublin, Mr. Joseph Milroy presiding.

The Secretary read a letter from the Minister for Industry and Commerce nominating Mr. J. Williams as liaison officer between the Council of the Federation and the Department of Industry and Commerce. Mr. Williams takes the place of Mr. J. B. Connell, who has been promoted to the vice-presidency of the Irish Sugar Board, Ltd. Mr. Williams was welcomed by the Chairman on behalf of the Council.

Mr. Milroy referred to the good work which had been done by the Federation in protecting the interests of Free State iron founders. Some six months ago that industry was faced with the probability of a large foreign company opening an iron foundry in the Free State. At a final conference held on October 2 with the officials of the Department of Industry and Commerce arrangements were made whereby the Free State iron founders would be in a position to respond to all reasonable demands made on their output.

Miss Alice Fitzgerald, 70 Portland row, said that she found the deceased woman lying dead fully dressed on a bed in the basement of 70 Haddington road, Dublin.

Dr. W. A. Robertson said that death was due to bronchial pneumonia, accelerated by a weak heart.

MARTYR TO GASTRITIS SAVED FROM OPERATION

Fancy suffering from gastritis for four years, trying nearly everything without relief, undergoing hospital treatment, and when she was actually awaiting an operation finding a speedy and permanent cure for all her trouble. How grateful Mrs. M. Carr, of Durham Road, Holloway, must have been to the friend who told her to try Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, that wonderful remedy for every form of stomach trouble.

Here is Mrs. Carr's own letter:

"I suffered with gastritis for nearly four years. I tried nearly everything there is to try. I was undergoing treatment at Hospital when they decided to operate.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, so as a last resource I tried a bottle, and I cannot explain the relief the first bottle gave me. Since then I have had two more bottles and I swear I would not be without it in the house."

Maclean Brand Stomach Powder will do the same for you. But be sure to ask your chemist for the genuine Maclean Brand Stomach Powder with the signature "ALEX C. MACLEAN." It is not sold loose, but only in 1/6, 2/3 and 5/3 bottles in cartons of Powder or Tablets.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

WATERTIGHT'S WIN

Curraghmore Gains a Narrow Victory for the King

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

NOTTINGHAM, Monday Night.

EVERYONE who was here to-day and had seen the race for the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe at Longchamp yesterday was enthusiastic in their appreciation of Brantone, the Blandford colt, who finished so well ahead of Felicitation.

He is an undersized narrow colt they say; no one would look twice at him if they had not heard of his reputation; but he is a tremendous galloper, and when they were entering the straight he pulled out a burst of speed to take the position his jockey wanted that was electrifying. It appears that the distance was not far enough for Felicitation, and he could not match the French colt for speed.

One hopes that Brantone and Windsor Lad will make normal progress from three to four years old, and that nothing will happen to prevent their meeting in the Ascot Gold Cup next June. By the way, we must omit Colombo from next year's possibles. He never runs again.

The Call-over

The card on the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire was called over in London this morning, when Solar Boy became a firmer favourite than ever for the former race, and the Newmarket winner, Wychwood Abbot, was favourite for the Cambridgeshire. Enfield, who cantered this morning, was noticed at 100 to 6, leaving 15 to 1 the best offer.

One who came in for notice at the call-over was the Irish Cesarewitch winner, Mr. J. U. Rank's Soliman's Feast, about whom 50 to 1 was taken, leaving 40 to 1 the best offer. I mention this because she was much fancied for the Nottingham Handicap to-day and started second favourite.

She finished just on the heels of the placed horses, and I am of opinion that she would have won had things come her way more. Beary was told to make strong running on her, but she was nearly knocked over early in the race and his plans were put out of joint.

The race was run at a poor pace, the pacemaker being Quartz, who led from Whiteplains and Watertight. They had only just turned into the straight when Whiteplains suddenly dropped back, and he did not finish in the first eight.

Leonard Beaten

After this old Leonard, the surprise winner of the Prince Edward Handicap at Manchester, took it up and appeared likely to win when Watertight came again and ran him out of it by a head.

Major Cayzer's Blandford filly Dalmary finished third,, and Spring Morning (who was backed for the Cesarewitch at the call-over at 15 to 1) was fourth. The favourite, Blank, was involved in all sorts of trouble in the course of the race and never got a run at all.

The performance of Watertight pays some tribute to the form in the Newbury Cup, in which he was third to Enfield and Overall. He runs in the Cesarewitch, but his stable companion, Hands Off, is understood to be the more fancied of Mr. Frank Dennis's pair.

I am not disposed to pay too much attention to the form in this race, except in the case of Soliman's Feast. This Nottingham Handicap has often proved a misleading guide to the Cesarewitch.

Close Finishes

There were a number of close finishes during the day, the first of them being for the Trent Selling Nursery, which Gordon Richards won on Sam Darling's filly, Buddha, by a neck and a short head from Christening and Diophrite. The indefatigable champion could not return from Paris by air, so he came last night by the long sea route, via Dieppe, and had a very bad crossing. He is a bad sailor, but there was no lack of energy in the finish he rode on the filly, who was bought in for 250 gns.

Dines won the other seller on Wiggie, trained by Higgs for Mr. C. E. Howard. This daughter of Apple Sammy only won by a head and a short head from Dalmally and Look Before, and was afterwards sold to George Beeby for 200 gns. The favourite, Ancient Sport, ran badly.

Friar Marcus is an old sire now, and Bayberry is an old mare, having been foaled in 1911. It is a long time since their mating produced Beresford. They were mated again at Sandringham two years ago, and the progeny, a colt called Curraghmore, won the Bestwood Nursery for the King.

Curraghmore Gets Home

It was only by a neck and a head that he beat the favourite, Boston West, and Arbitration. Boston West and Curraghmore were racing on opposite sides of the course, and E. Smith on the former, believing he had won, may have ridden a little over-confidently.

The opposition in the Southwell Maiden Plate was so moderate that the Newmarket winner, Lord Ivor Churchill's Carrickore, was brought on to run in spite of her 10lb. penalty, which brought her weight to 9st. 10lb. She beat them all except The Twink, who, receiving 38lb., ran her out of it. The Twink, a Beresford filly, owned and trained at Ripon by Mr. R. Renton, has not been able to win small sellers in the North, and was a 100 to 6 chance.

With odds laid on him Mr. Denison-Pender's gelding, Arcature, beat Lady Houston's Dublin purchase, Min Lee, and two other runners in the Rufford Abbey Maiden Plate.

Selections

The racing will be continued here to-morrow, when we are to see a fancied Cambridgeshire candidate, SOLFATARA, in the Trial Plate. It does not look as if the opposition will be strong, and she should win.

The Sherwood Forest Nursery should be won by DEBRETT, and the Elvaston Plate by IRENICON.

GALTEE MORE.

TRIAL PLATE

Hat Guard Preferred to Solfatara at Weights

OVERNIGHT plans indicate that the Trial Plate at Nottingham to-day will not, after all, throw much light on the Cambridgeshire situation. The only big race candidate of much account likely to run being Solfatara.

Although there has been no move for Miss Courtauld's filly in the ante-post betting so far, she is considered to hold a first-rate opportunity of opening her account for the season over this mile, and in the event of a stylish victory, she would probably appear in the quotations.

Solfatara reproduces her best form when there is some "give" in the turf, so she will have conditions to her liking here. I understand that her recent home gallops have been most satisfactory, and her chance is obvious on Chesterfield Cup running at Goodwood. She finished fifth, in front of such good performers as Mate, Statesman, The Blue Boy and Effaceable.

Akela, who is one of several nominated for the Cambridgeshire by M. D. Peacock, has also been waiting for rain to fall. He finished a good third to Monkshood and Patriot King at Stockton last time out, and previously scored a runaway victory over a mile at Newcastle. I think he is to be preferred to Main Chance, who has been running over sprinting distances, and was last seen out in May.

Hardy is a disappointing customer, but Empire Unity, who runs instead of Soldier Man, is a consistent miler. It is said that he has done really well at home since finishing third to Almond Hill and Bleu de Roi II. at Gatwick, which form is pretty useful, despite the subsequent failure of Bleu de Roi II. Hopetoun has more to do here than when winning maiden races at Sandown and Gatwick, and is weighted too near Hat Guard for my liking. The latter is nicely treated on his Goodwood fourth to St. Oswald in a desperately close finish.

Lady Lace will not be disgraced, but I am tempted to choose between Solfatara and HAT GUARD.

The latter receives 31lb. from Basil Jarvis's charge. He might come out the better on the soft going.

It is understood that Debrett will carry Mr. J. V. Rank's colours in the Sherwood Nursery, instead of Voilino, and this may be significant, for both have proved their ability in similar events. Debrett was staying on when winning over six furlongs at Doncaster, and was by no means extended. Smoke Screen is a strong "tip" from Lambourn, and I think he will be the chief danger to who, however, appears the best to stand.

With all his weight, Icarus will have to be considered for the Elvaston Plate, as this five furlongs will suit him to a nicety. Shell of Gold and Irenicon also have plenty of speed, but, after her good effort at Newmarket, appeals most to me. She finished fourth to Crumpets, The Divot and Polar Bear over six furlongs, but held them all for speed until the last two hundred yards.

MISS SCROPE

PAPER CAP

and E. Smith is a combination that appeals strongly to me for the Bentinck Welter Plate.

NEWMARKET NOTES

Latest about Enfield: Hints for Nottingham

NEWMARKET, Monday.

CAPTAIN BOYD-ROCHFORT'S horses were on the Bury side this morning, when the Cesarewitch candidate Enfield was given a couple of five furlongs canters, and, unless some mishap occurrs, he will be doing good work before the end of the week.

Frank Butters's Bay Monk (Connorton) and Maltravers (Dickens) were given a good five furlongs spin, as was Battle Note (Barnard). I do not think that we saw the best of the last-named at Birmingham last week, and I do not intend to miss her when she runs again in similar company.

Gilpin gave Fairbairn and Appenine a nice five furlongs spin. I was disappointed by Fairbairn's running at Newbury, but the probability is that the hard going was the cause of his not being seen at his best. Now that the going is more yielding, he should be followed for future engagements.

The Hon. George Lambton gave Pricket and Spade a nice pace gallop over one mile. H. Beasley rode Spirituelle II. in a similar gallop, but as he will be unable to do the weight on the mare in the Cambridgeshire, I understand that the French jockey, Semblat, will have the mount. He well knows her dislike to the gate, as he has ridden her on more than one occasion in France.

Major Beatty gave La Souriciere and Ringmaster a good seven furlongs gallop. The latter, who won at the Doncaster June fixture, is not unlikely to score again before the season closes, and I am confident that he is better on soft going. He is nicely weighted in the Little Go Handicap at York on Thursday.

Briscoe subjected Commander III. to a good pace gallop over one mile. I believe that the distance of the Norwich Handicap was too far for him, as a mile is about as far as he cares to go, and he may win a minor handicap over that distance before the close of the season. He will make an ideal Lincolnshire Handicap candidate, as I think he is better in the spring than at any other time of the year.

Digby sent his Cesarewitch Stakes candidate, Hands Off, with Prince Manna, Conway and others of his team, a useful pace gallop over one mile. Hands Off is looking well in himself, and I understand that the distance of his gallop to-morrow will be extended.

The Colwick Park Selling Plate at Nottingham to-day may be won by SHINGLED FILLY.

I prefer Foggy Night to Mestre and Toscano for the Welbeck Selling Plate. Best Bargain may find the distance too far for her, and, while I expect Sally Forth to run well, I shall rely upon

GRANVILLE (next best).

Thauma is nicely weighted in the Trial Plate, and she has done well in recent gallops, as has Hardy, and both should run well. Andrea has not been seen in public since he ran for the Rosebery Stakes at Kempton Park in March, and I have more liking for who has pleased in her gallops over the distance of the race.

Hexham and

will find supporters for the Sherwood Forest Nursery, and I shall take the latter to represent me.

I prefer Tiddles to Wyke Lane, Fines Herbes and Oratorium for the Elvaston Plate, but I shall plump for

MISS SCROPE*

In the Bentinck Plate

PAPER CAP

should beat Royal Progeny.

WYCHWOOD ABBOT FAVOURITE

WAGERING ON AUTUMN HANDICAPS

A feature of yesterday's "call-over" at the Victoria Club, London, on the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgeshire was the installation of a new favourite in Wychwood Abbot for the Houghton event.

This market move is the direct outcome of the impressive win of Mr. O. V. Watney's colt in the Norwich Handicap at Newmarket last Friday. From being on offer at the long odds of 40 to 1 agst. Wychwood Abbot is now favourite at 100 to 8 agst., after £1,000 to £80 (eight times) had been noticed.

Solar Boy, who ousted Enfield from favouritism for the Cesarewitch a few days ago, still retains his place at 10 to 1 agst., after £1,000 to £90 (three times) had been laid.

Spring Morning and Dona Sol were each backed to win about £6,000 at their quoted rates. Enfield, who resumed work at Newmarket yesterday, and Roi de Paris had friends at £1,000 to £60 (twice), and £2,000 to £100, respectively. Small sums went on the others dealt with.

For the Cambridgeshire, Statesman, following his Duke of York Handicap win at Kempton, came into the market, £2,500 to £100 and £1,000 to £45 (twice) being laid. Minor sums went on Mary Tudor, Caymanas and Buckland.

THREE RACES IN THE DUKE'S HONOUR

BEST HORSES MAY RUN FOR GOLD CUP

SYDNEY, Monday.

Three races are to be staged by the Australian Jockey Club at their November meeting at Randwick Racecourse in honour of the Duke of Gloucester. The races will take place on November 22nd, the day of his arrival.

The premier race is the Duke of Gloucester Plate, worth £2,000, with a gold cup to the value of £1,000 added. The distance will be one and a half miles, and the maximum weight 9st. 5lb.; no penalty conditions attached. It is hoped and expected that the best horses in Australia, such as Peter Pan, the Melbourne Cup winner, and Rogilla, King's Cup winner, will be attracted by this race, and that the Duke will thus have the pleasure of seeing them run.

The other two races will be the Ulster Handicap and the Culloden Stakes, the Jockey Club not having overlooked the fact that Prince Henry is Earl of Ulster and Baron Culloden.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Colombo to Retire

Colombo will retire to stud at the end of the present season, and will stand next year at his owner's stud at Exning, near Newmarket, at a fee of 300 guineas, and one guinea groom's fee. Purchased for only 510 guineas as a yearling, Colombo won nine races (including the Two Thousand Guineas) value £26,220.

Well-known Bookmaker Dead

Mr. William G. Morgan, believed to be the oldest bookmaker in Wales, has died at Cardiff at the age of 75. He was well known as a fearless operator at all the principal race meetings in England, and was one of the oldest members of the Victoria Club, his membership dating back to 1896.

Enfield Resumes Work

The Cesarewitch candidate, Enfield, who has been on the easy list since being struck into while contesting the Newbury Autumn Cup, cantered five furlongs twice on the "Railway field" at Newmarket yesterday. Enfield, who is still wearing a bandage on his off hind leg, moved perfectly.

Latest Cesarewitch News

Mr. Leopold Lonsdale's Hat Trick is a non-acceptor for the Cesarewitch. Mr. R. L. Glasspool states that his filly, Quartz, will accept for the Cesarewitch if she is found to be none the worse this morning for her race in the Nottingham Handicap yesterday.

Winner for the King

His Majesty had his first two-year-old winner this season when his colt, Curraghmore, by Friar Marcus out of Bayberry, was successful in the Bestwood Nursery at Nottingham yesterday. This was the King's fourth success this year.

Soft Going at Chepstow

A lot of rain has fallen in the West Country during the past fortnight, and the going will be on the yielding side at Chepstow's Welsh St. Leger meeting to-morrow and Thursday.

CRICKET.

MEETING OF M.C.C. COMMITTEE

WHAT IS TO HAPPEN ABOUT "BODY-LINE"?

"M.C.C. are appointing a Committee to frame suggestions to place before the counties."

This brief statement made by M.C.C. yesterday left every follower of cricket wondering exactly what is to happen over the vexed "body-line" question, which has caused so much controversy.

When it was learned that the full Committee of the Marylebone Cricket Club were meeting—as usual, under conditions of great secrecy—it was hoped that at long last the ruling body would reveal their views on "body-line."

Among those who attended were R. E. S. Wyatt, the England captain; Sir Stanley Jackson, Chairman of the Test Match Selection Committee, and Messrs. P. F. Warner, R. H. Mallett and R. H. Twining.

The meeting, an extraordinarily long one, was presided over by the Earl of Cromer, President of M.C.C. It is understood that he will be Chairman of the Committee appointed to "frame suggestions," and that this special Committee will get to work immediately.

HUNTING.

PROSPECTS IN MEATH

Hunting prospects in Meath for the coming season are very promising. There are plenty of foxes, and the cub hunting, which is in progress, is providing excellent sport. Major J. R. Shirley succeeds Mrs. Victor Parr as Joint Master. The other Joint Master is Mrs. A. H. Connell, who has now held that position for three seasons.

HUNTING APPOINTMENTS

SOUTH COUNTY DUBLIN HARRIERS—Saturday, October 13 (bye day)—Esker, Lucan.

NEWMARKET TOWN PLATE

Latest news regarding the Newmarket Town Plate is that Mr. Lawrence's Jacobite is an additional runner, and the horse will be ridden by the owner's wife. Miss Hamshaw is to ride her father's horse, St. Gall, and Mr. Frank Simpson, who has ridden the winners of so many Town Plates, has decided, after all, that he will ride again if he can obtain a mount.

The course this year will not be quite the same as hitherto. Owing to the alterations to the stands on the July course it will more nearly approach to the old "round course," missing the last furlong, of the Bunbury Mile.

WORK AT THE CURRAGH

THE CURRAGH, Monday.

The going rode heavy here this morning, when trainers were busy putting the finishing touches on their charges under orders to compete at the First October meeting on Wednesday and Thursday.

BEHAN'S Liscloon and Poor Jack went a striding gallop of seven furlongs. Both run in the Beresford Stakes, in which the latter holds a fine chance. Planchette went six furlongs at half-speed. Over Coat galloped a mile at a nice pace. Cariff did a steady canter. Grand Circle, Balah, and Newtown Ford galloped five furlongs. Grand Circle and Balah will run well in their respective races on Wednesday. Pygmalion, Bayfort, Rope Trick and the remainder cantered.

BRABAZON'S Call Him traversed a mile and a quarter at a fair pace.

COLLINS'S Silverdale cantered five furlongs. Templetown galloped the same distance. Doonbeg and Battlestown had a similar spin.

DAWSON'S Jorto, Jimmy's Pet, Shady Lane, and others of the Rathbride Manor team were given healthy bouts of trotting and cantering exercise. Jimmy's Pet in the Three-Year-Old Hurdle on Wednesday, and Jorto, in the New Abbey Hurdle on Thursday, are both in good trim for their engagements.

PARKINSON'S Irish Cesarewitch candidate, Irish Fun, Molino, Gahen, Warford, Cherry Pip, Glannone, Santa Klaus, Kildonan's Hope, Toomba, and Bagged Fox galloped a mile at a good pace in batches. Double Toy, who is nicely handicapped in the Scurry Plate; The Red Boy, engaged in the Loughbrown Plate; and Bushel galloped five furlongs at a good pace. Brawl, Maryland, and Sol Erin had a similar gallop.

ROGERS'S Clicquot, Ladytown, and Taffeta, the Crotanstown candidates for the Irish Cesarewitch, were given nice mile work. Oblique, New Crop, Ruddy Essex, Chirgwin, Ashvaraj, Song of the Marches, Stefanetta, Parisian, and Senora went five furlongs sharply in batches. Western Front galloped a mile at a good pace.

SLOCOCK'S Glum Jess, John Poindexter, and Deep Hope, who are all in nice trim for their engagements this week, were given cantering exercise with others of the team.

WATER POLO

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY 2 PEMBROKE 2

Elleker was unable to play for Pembroke, H. M. Stephenson deputising, and Birkin replaced C. Carroll.

In a keen first half Trinity were more often on the attack, but Pembroke were the more dangerous. Mitchell played brilliantly in goal, and at half-time the scores were level, Morton and Dockrell being the scorers. The second half was fought out at a fast pace, the exchanges, on the whole, being even. Rudd got a brilliant goal for Pembroke early on, and Dockrell equalised quickly. Despite the handicap of Elleker's absence, Pembroke were value for a draw in a fine game.

Dublin University—G. F. Mitchell; B. G. Kearon (capt.), H. G. Butler; H. A. Daniels, G. Daly, P. H. Dockrell, C. A. Boyle.

Pembroke—J. P Shannon; H. W. Stephenson, J. P. Wallace; P. Murray, R. Baskin, J. H. Morton (capt.), D. M. Rudd.

NEW LEINSTER SELECTORS

FOUR CHANGES ON THE COMMITTEE

The following were appointed as the Leinster Selection Committee for the coming season:—

Dr. P. F. Murray, G. P. S. Hogan, R. M. Scott, W. P. Collopy, Commdt. J. Gleeson.

Dr. Murray and G. P. S. Hogan are the nominees to the Irish Five.

This committee differs in four instances from that which officiated last season, R. M. Scott alone retaining his place. The outgoing members are J. J. Warren, S. E. Polden, the Rev. R. H. Dowse and R. D. Gray. J. J. Warren and S. E. Polden were last year's Leinster representatives on the Irish Five. Dr. Murray and W. P. Collopy are old internationals, and the former was recently elected President of the Leinster Branch. Commdt. Gleeson was a well-known forward for Blackrock College, and both he and G. P. S. Hogan represented Leinster, G. P. S. Hogan playing centre three-quarter for University College, Dublin, and Lansdowne. This is a young committee, closely in touch with the game, and one that should give every satisfaction.

ANOTHER GOOD DISPLAY BY BECTIVE

LEICESTER .... 11 BECTIVE 6

Bective Rangers put up a good performance yesterday at Leicester against what is probably the strongest club side in England at present, and gave the "Tigers" as much anxiety as any team has done this season. Bective were beaten by 1 goal 1 penalty goal and 1 try (11 points) to 2 tries (6 points), but at one stage of the second half Bective were only two points in arrears, and desperate rushes by the forwards forced Leicester to defend with all their power.

J. Bailey, stand-off half, and H. Murphy, right centre, were menacing with their sudden bursts and clever kicking. J. Kinnealy, too, had a big share on the right wing in Bective's most threatening moves. It was his opportunism that led to the Irishmen's second try. He raced with an opponent for the ball, which was bounding towards touch near the home "25," and, instead of allowing it to pass out of play, Kinnealy tapped it back to where Murphy could gather easily and run through unchallenged.

Leicester responded with a penalty goal by McLean, their enterprising stand-off half, and held the lead, despite a fine late rally by Bective, in the first half. Leicester opened the scoring, Gadney, England's scrum half, initiating a movement that led to Sheppard scoring behind the posts, for Crowe to convert. Kinnealy followed up an attempt to drop a goal by J. Bailey and charged over the line for an unconverted try. It was Gadney who worried Bective most, and he had the backs guessing when he darted straight through from a scrum for a try, which Crowe could not goal. Vernon Watkins, Bective's hooker, was quite the equal of H. Wyman, the Coventry forward, who was hooking for Leicester. Fitzsimons, at scrum half, was quite as accurate as Gadney in his services of passes.

Leicester—R. J. Barr; R. A. Buckingham, M. P. Crowe, W. A. Jackson, W. V. Sheppard; J. R. McLean, B. C. Gadney; A. P. Hughes, H. Wyman, J. Wormleighton, G. P. Vallance, J. T. Berry, N. Adams, F. C. Drummond, M. A. Robinson.

Bective—J. Scannell; J. Kinnealy, H. Murphy, P. Bailey, J. Doyle, J. Bailey, J. Fitzsimons; J. Hooper, V. Watkins, L. Doyle, V. Aird, J. McGrath, S. Deering, T. Little, G. C. Higginbotham.

THE KING'S HOSPITAL F.C.

On Wednesday last the King's Hospital S.C.T. met a Blackrock College XV. at Blackrock, the game ending in a scoreless draw. W. J. Studdert, the King's Hospital full back, showed that he has lost none of his brilliance of last season.

On Saturday last the King's Hospital S.C.T. met a Dublin University XV., King's Hospital winning by 3 points to nil. The School pack did well to gain the advantage in the tight scrums from a much heavier pack. The way in which the School backs tackled was impressive, but faulty handling handicapped their attack on a few occasions. W. J. Studdert made no mistake at full back, and J. A. Turpin and S. B. Gillespie were the best in the pack. The former made a brilliant opening from the line-out in the second half to enable J. R. Wheelock to score.

GOLF

THE NOLAN-MAHON MATCH

The dates for the 72 holes home and home match between W. Nolan (Portmarnock) and P. Mahon (Royal Dublin) have been altered to Sunday, October 28, and Sunday, November 4.

The first 36 holes were arranged for October 21 at Portmarnock, but as the Ireland v. Scotland professional match at the Castle will be played on October 21 and Nolan and Mahon are in the Irish team, the Committees of Portmarnock and Royal Dublin decided that it would be only fair to the two players to alter the dates.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

PROSPECTS FOR THE SEASON

OPENING MATCHES NEXT SATURDAY

By Our Special Correspondent.

Although the 1934 season only opens officially on Saturday next, the 13th inst., most of the clubs have held general practices for the past two week-ends, and, judging by the splendid attendances, a successful season is in view. The Senior Cup-holders, Old College, will have the greater number of last year's XI. available, and, in addition, a number of the Alexandra College team have joined. Some of these played on the schools' interprovincial team, the most important of them being Misses K. Hassett, J. Harding, D. Watkins, D. Collen and J. de Courcy Wheeler. Miss Hassett should prove a very valuable acquisition, as she was one of the best halves in schools' hockey for some seasons past, while Miss Harding is a full-back of considerable merit. The officers for the coming season are:—President, Mrs. Preston; Hon. Treasurer, Miss H. Joynt; Hon. Secretary, Mrs. Pilkington, 7 Wellington place; Assistant Secretary, Miss Johnston.

Maids of the Mountain, who have not shown up so well in recent years, certainly look like staging a return to their winning form of four or five years ago, when they were practically unbeatable in league or cup matches. The most notable additions to their membership are Mrs. Gamble and Mrs. Findlater, who, as Miss French and Miss D. de Courcy Wheeler, were two of the best forwards who ever represented Dublin University. Indeed, we are fairly safe in saying that Mrs. Gamble is one of the cleverest inner forwards the game in Leinster has produced for many seasons past. The inclusion of these players in the Maids' front line should supply just that finish that was lacking in their attack last year.

TRINITY'S LOSSES.

Dublin University, of course, will miss the services of Mrs. Gamble rather badly, and we understand that they are also losing Miss Buchanan, who has been a most reliable member of the back division for some time past. However, the schools and colleges are sure to send up players fit to fill the vacancies.

Pembroke Wanderers have lost a few of their senior players. Miss Carson, who was tried by the Leinster Selectors last year, was married recently, and has gone to reside in London, while neither Mrs. O'Donnell (right half) nor Miss Mooney (centre-half) will be available. However, they have acquired a number of new members, prominent among whom are Miss Gibson, the Optimists' goalkeeper, and Miss C. Burke, the U.C.D. forward.

Muckross have acquired a second pitch at L.C.C., Rathmines, and consequently have increased their membership considerably, and are running at least five League teams. Miss Burke, a Schools Interprovincial player, is their best recruit from the School, but new members also include the Misses K. Lennon and Maguire, of U.C.D. Miss Marquess has also joined, but at the moment is a doubtful starter. Miss Lennon may prove a useful acquisition, as she possesses plenty of speed and only requires some good coaching to develop into a good wing-forward.

SHEILMARTIN'S HOPES.

Sheilmartin, who are among the five newcomers to senior ranks, should field a really strong side. In addition to Miss Parsons, the Irish goalkeeper, they possess some fine players in the Misses Guinan (centre-half), O'Byrne and Lalor (backs), while their attack will be strengthened by Miss O'Kane (Civil Service).

Bray also have come up from the Intermediate League, and will have the services of Miss M. Rose, who has returned to them after a few seasons with Optimists. Miss Rose will probably be supported in the forward line by the Misses B. and E. Talbot, who played for Arklow School's XI. two years ago when they won the Senior School's Cup.

Trefoil, Maids II. and Glenageary are all promoted to senior ranks this year, but Pembroke Wanderers II. are going back to the Intermediate League. This latter move seems rather a pity, as there was little material difference between the two XI.'s last year.

We are glad to note that the Leinster L.H.U. have acquired two hockey pitches at Cherryfield, Templeogue, as up to this they have been decidely badly off for pitches for Interprovincials and Cup finals. Maids of the Mountain are renting one of the grounds.

BOXING

EASY VICTORIES FOR CHAMPIONS

McAVOY AND MILLER WIN IN FIRST ROUND

Freddie Miller, of Cincinnati, featherweight champion of the world, met Benny Sharkey, a local boxer, at Newcastle-on-Tyne last night. In another important contest at Manchester, Jock McAvoy, the British middleweight champion, fought Jack Etienne, of Belgium, while at Birmingham Jack Hood and Len (Tiger) Smith met in a return contest. In each case no title was at stake.

BOXER'S RIB BROKEN

Seventyone seconds sufficed for Jock McAvoy to knock-out Jack Etienne. There were only fifty-two seconds of actual fighting, for Etienne took a count of nine prior to the knock-out. McAvoy bore in with a two-handed attack, and a right punch sent the Belgian reeling across the ring. A short spell of hitting put him down for a count of nine. When he came up McAvoy bore down upon him, and he sank under a rain of blows.

It was subsequently discovered that Etienne had sustained a broken rib.

"McAvoy hits harder than anyone else in the game," said Etienne afterwards. "It was a terrific punch that did the damage, and I think it is a back rib which is broken. I would like to meet McAvoy again in Belgium, but my only hope would be to win on points. I could never knock him out. I am certain that he would beat Marcel Thil."

MILLER'S QUICK WIN

There was also an early finish to the contest between Freddie Miller and Benny Sharkey, Miller winning by a knock-out when the first round had lasted 2 mins. 10 secs. The deciding punch was a terrific left that did not travel more than six inches, and it gave Sharkey no hope of surviving the count.

Indeed, it took Sharkey some considerable time to recover. It was an erratic and excited Sharkey who entered the contest, against a cool opponent, whose "South-paw" stance appeared to be a problem for the Newcastle boxer. Many of Sharkey's swings missed, and once the pair had got to close quarters heavy punishment was delivered by the champion, whose drives to the body were short. Sharkey, on the retreat in a neutral corner, lowered his guard and Miller seized the chance to end the contest.

HOOD BEATS SMITH

Jack Hood, the former European and British welter-weight champion, made a triumphant return to the ring at Birmingham when he defeated Len Smith on points, over fifteen rounds, and gave a lesson in boxing to the man who had beaten him a few months ago in the same ring. From the start Hood gave a skilful display and, as early as the second round, Smith went down for a count of eight. Hood continued to pile up the points with beautifully timed lefts and right crosses, and he blocked most of Smith's punches in good style.

In the thirteenth round Smith made a great effort, and, as the result of fierce two-handed attacks, Hood seemed almost out on his feet when the gong sounded. Smith continued these tactics to the end, but he was made to miss frequently by Hood's clever defence.

Hood said after the fight that he hoped to meet Jimmy McLarnin.

SCOTTISH CHAMPION BEATEN.

In the final of the eliminating contest for the Middle-weight Championship of Great Britain, at Manchester, Al Burke (London), the Southern Area title-holder, defeated George Gordon, the champion of Scotland, on a technical knock-out in the fourth round of a contest scheduled for twelve rounds.

Craugh Cutlet led in the early stages, but Buzzing Dick took the lead nearing the last bend, and despite a strong challenge by Chicken Sandwich, went on to win by one length. THREE YEARS' BORSTAL FOR THREE BANANAS

The immediate release of a youth named William Evans, who said he lived in Farnworth (Lancs.), was ordered by the Court of Criminal Appeal, London, yesterday. Evans, who is 18 years of age, appealed against a sentence of three years in a Borstal institution passed on him at the Quarter Sessions at Preston for the larceny of three bananas from a store.

A portion of a man's clothing containing a card bearing the name "McNaughton, Clones," was discovered between the Pigeon House and the Poolbeg Lighthouse on last Sunday. Inquiries made by the Civic Guards have failed to establish any trace of a person of that name being reported as missing.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Monday.

The Stock Exchange to-day was completely uninteresting, operators apparently holding back pending "technical digestion" of last week's rally. The list ended slightly on the lower side after a turnover of 450,000 shares.

The opening was steady. The market turned very dull later in the morning with price moves narrow and indecisive and the general trend inclining downwards. A few specialty issues displayed firmness. Railroads kept fairly steady, while General Cigar gained 3 points.

Operations continued to be very slow in the afternoon. Aside from specialty issues—some of which were firm and others lower—the bulk of the list showed little change.

The late weakness in the Mining group tended somewhat to depress the rest of the list and the close was easy.

The Montreal Stock Exchange remained closed to-day.

According to the American Iron and Steel Institute steel mill activity for the current week is at 23.6 per cent. of capacity, compared with 23.2 per cent. last week. The publication "Steel," in estimating activity last week again at 25 per cent. of capacity, says that large users are making every effort to forestall buying, apparently in anticipation of lower prices.

The sales of General Motors Corporation cars by dealers to purchasers in the United States during September totalled 71,650 cars, compared with 86,260 during August. Sales by the Corporation to dealers in the United States reached 53,740, while the total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, were 71,890 cars, against 109,280 during August.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Monday.

Steadiness of cables and reports of light frost in the Argentine encouraged early strength in grains, but all markets subsequently reacted on an absence of outside interest and scattered profit-taking. Trading was light, with price movements narrow. Wheat early advanced on buying which was credited to cash houses, together with a persistent demand from milling interests and an improved foreign inquiry. Maize prices rose on the lightness of country offerings, the strength of the cash situation, and in sympathy with wheat. Rye advanced on an improved sentiment, together with a decreased pressure of foreign offerings. Oats advanced on a fair decrease in the visible supply and on purchasing by commission houses.

WHEAT opened steady, 1/4c. to 1/2c. higher, and closed easy, with prices 1/8c. to 1c. lower.

BIG EGYPTIAN CONTRACT

From Reuter's Correspondent.

CAIRO, Monday.

It is understood that Messrs. John Cochrane and Sons, Ltd., have been awarded the contract for the remodelling of the Assiut Barrage. Their tender amounted to £11,077,462.

SPEAR-BLOODING IN KENYA

From Reuter's Correspondent.

NAIROBI, Monday.

Strong official measures are likely, if there are more cases of "ritual" murder—crimes committed by natives whose ritual commands them to dip their spears in blood.

Despite the tribal fine of £900 imposed in June by the Government of Kenya on five clans of the Samburu tribe, who had been connected with a series of such crimes, sporadic cases of spear-blooding murder continue.

Kikuyu natives employed by a European settler in the Laikipia district have been suddenly attacked by two Samburu tribesmen, who speared one of the Kikuyu natives.

Judge Carew announced at New York yesterday that the remainder of the hearings in the Vanderbilt case, which is being fought over the custody of the ten-year-old heiress, Gloria Vanderbilt, will be private.

When Samuel Hood, of Wilkie street, Glasgow, was using a blow-lamp to remove paint from a door yesterday it exploded in his face. His clothing caught fire and he was burned to death.

GLASGOW STEAMER AGROUND

News was received in London last night that six officers, three apprentices and 55 Lascars had been taken off the Glasgow steamer City of Cambridge, which is aground on the Pratas Reef, in the China Sea, about 200 miles from Hong Kong. The men are on board the cruiser Suffolk, which went to the steamer's assistance.

The captain, five officers and 15 Lascars still remain in the City of Cambridge.

RUMANIAN TRADERS' DEBTS

It was stated at a meeting yesterday of the directors of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce that the sterling equivalent of amounts still outstanding to members by their Rumanian customers was in the region of £500,000.

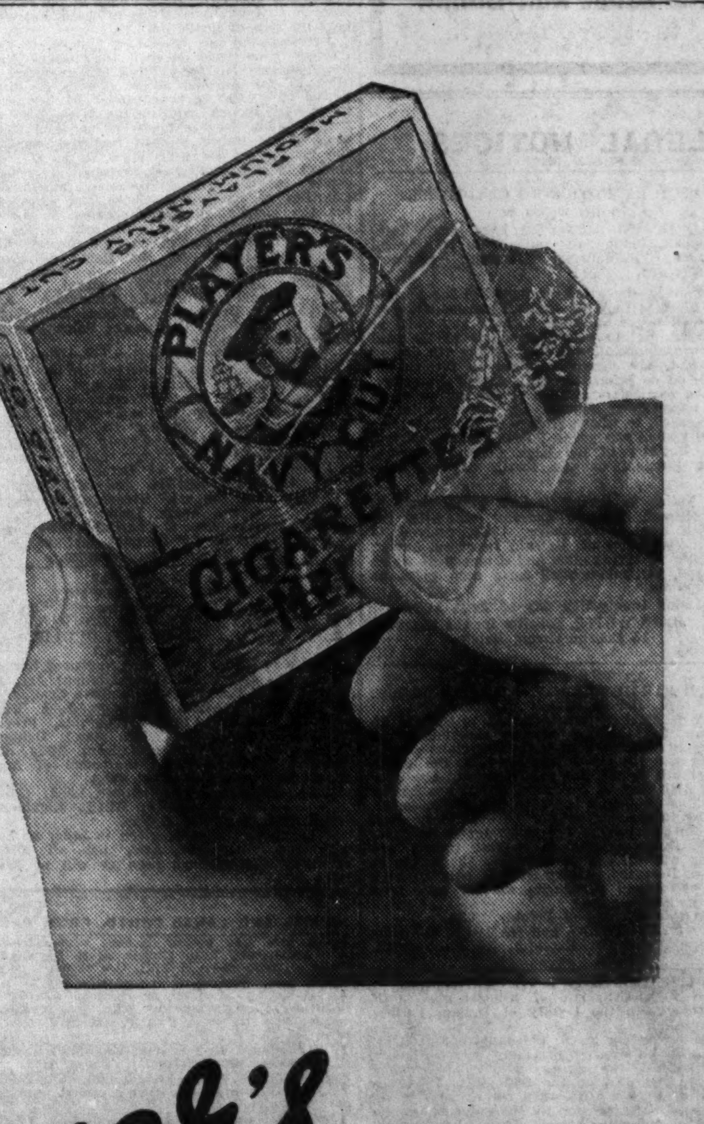

It was pointed out that the greatest concern existed throughout Lancashire at the present currency restrictions, which were preventing Rumanian importers from meeting their obligations. Manchester interests were collaborating with the woollen trade in pursuing this matter with the Government, and the board authorised vigorous action being taken in this connection to support the view already advanced by the Chamber to the Government.
